Ma Rainey's Black Bottom is an adaptation of a 1982 Broadway play by August Wilson who also wrote Fences. Premiering on Netflix, this movie surrounds a group of jazz musicians who are set to record an album on a sweltering hot day in Chicago in 1927.

Ma Rainey (Viola Davis), a popular jazz singer, has her band go to a studio to record an album. As the band assembles the young, ambitious trumpet player Levee (the late Chadwick Boseman) has other plans for what he wants to do and as tensions flare between him and the remainder of the group, personal stories emerge and decisions are made about where their futures lie.

As Levee, Chadwick Boseman gives the performance of his career and it is even more tragic because of this that we lost him so soon. Boseman transforms into Levee and has a couple long speeches that just bring the viewer in and doesn't let go until he is done.

Boseman deserves an Oscar nomination and, depending on who ends up being nominated, may be the first posthumous acting winner since Heath Ledger. He absolutely deserves it. What a range he had from Black Panther to playing James Brown in Get On Up to Jackie Robinson in 42.

Viola Davis has become one of the best actresses of her generation, winning an Oscar for Fences a few years ago, and nails her performance as Ma. She commands the screen and her makeup and costumes really elevate everything she brings to the role and she is perfectly cast.

Ma Rainey's Black Bottom does feel like a play as it is a story that is pretty much set in one setting. That might take away a little bit from it being an engaging movie as it doesn't move around like most films but that is a small complaint. This is an engaging story, has some humorous movies mixed with the serious ones and brings out amazing work from Viola Davis and especially the very missed Chadwick Boseman.

THE OLD 1894 LEXINGTON SCHOOL BUILDING is still in use after 126 years. It is hidden behind the current junior high which was constructed in 1930.

INCREASED ENROLLMENT forced the school board to build prefabricated classrooms next to the brick school. This photo was taken in 1927.

Ombudsman Program in need of volunteers

Those who have a heart for older adults in the community can volunteer with Ohio's Long-Term Care Ombudsman Program.

Volunteers commit to four hours a month, on their own schedule.

Volunteers are critical to the success of the Ombudsman Program. They are often the first contact most older adults and families will have with the program. Regular visits (currently phone calls) help residents in long-term care facilities.

Volunteers will receive 14 hours of training from the regional program and are certified to perform certain duties, including:

- Providing residents with information about the Ombudsman Program and resident rights
- Assisting with handling uncomplicated complaints
- Being a voice for those who are unable to make their voice heard
- Enhancing the quality of life of nursing and assisted living home residents

For more information and an application contact Melissa Wilson, Ombudsman Volunteer Coordinator, at 1-800-860-5799, ext. 1107.

Lexington's old, new school buildings

By Bob Carter

Having outgrown the 1850 school on Church St., voters in Lexington approved the construction of a new six-room school building in 1894. Part of it is still in use today after 126 years. The "Old Red Brick," as it is commonly known, solved the overcrowding of the former school. With six good size classrooms it was a very safe building with a fire escape for each classroom. There had been disastrous school fires around the country.

The big bell in the tower called all classes at starting time and again after lunch. For its time, the old girl was a beautiful statement for a progressive town even if it isn't by today's standards. There were no restrooms or running water.

If you had to "go" you had to go out the back door and up the hill to the large outhouse. There was one side for boys and one side for girls. A well pump furnished water until Lexington developed a water system in the late 1920s.

The coming need of high school classes pushed the old girl to the limits and frugal school leaders built a long prefabricated frame building on the north side lot.

When the state mandated the move to consolidated schools it ended the area's one-room school houses. Buses began transporting students to Lexington which resulted in the 1930 construction of a new high school building. The yellow brick was a much needed expansion for higher education and is the present day junior high building.

And now Lexington is having to build again. Will it ever end? Not as long as more kids need to learn. That's why Lexington is very proud of its good school system.

Donors can win “Big Game at Home” package for giving blood

The American Red Cross and the National Football League are teaming up this month, during National Blood Donor Month, to urge individuals to give blood and to help tackle the national convalescent plasma shortage.

Those who come to donate blood or platelets this January will be automatically entered to win two tickets to next year's Super Bowl LVI in Los Angeles. In addition, those who come to give Jan. 1–20, will also be automatically entered to win the Big Game at Home package of a 65-inch television and a $500 gift card to put toward food and fun.

Individuals can schedule an appointment to give blood today with the American Red Cross by visiting RedCrossBlood.org, using the Red Cross Blood Donor App, calling 1-800-RED-CROSS or activating the Blood Scheduling Skill for Amazon Alexa.

Individuals who have recovered from COVID-19 may have antibodies in their plasma that could provide a patient's immune system the boost it needs to beat the virus.

There are two ways COVID-19 survivors can help — through a convalescent plasma donation or by simply giving whole blood. Plasma from whole blood donations that test positive for COVID-19 antibodies may be used to help COVID-19 patients.

To protect the health and safety of Red Cross staff and donors, individuals who do not feel well or who believe they may be ill with COVID-19 should postpone their donation.

Each Red Cross blood drive and donation center follows high standards of safety and infection control, and additional precautions — including temperature checks, social distancing and face coverings for donors and staff — have been implemented to help protect the health of all those in attendance. Donors are asked to schedule an appointment prior to arriving at the drive and are required to wear a face covering or mask while at the drive, in alignment with Centers for Disease Control and Prevention public guidance.

Change made to Hospice of North Central Ohio press release

Last week an article was published about the board of directors at The Hire Family Foundation's approval of a grant to name the community bereavement center at Hospice of North Central Ohio in honor of Jack and Phyllis Hire.

Because the manner in which the press release was worded, there has been concern expressed inquiring if Phyllis had passed away. Phyllis survives her husband

Jack, who passed in 2004.

The grant in the amount of $40,000 will help expand and enhance HNCO bereavement services and programs in Ashland and Richland counties while honoring the memory of Jack and Phyllis Hire. A portion of the grant is designated for the creation of a new endowment fund to support the center. The fund will be managed by The Ashland County Community Foundation.
