The “Being a Reader Makes You a Leader” program is returning to Mansfield Parks. Richland County Children Services, the City of Mansfield Parks and Recreation Department and United Way of Richland County are helping youths become future leaders through the “Being A Reader Makes You A Leader” reading program.

The program is part of the CommUnity Day Camp that runs June 13 until Aug. 5 at Burton Park, 1117 Sunset Blvd. and North Lake Park, 268 Hope Rd., from 9 am to 3 pm for children ages 5 to 12.

Madison Safety Town returns after many year hiatus

Photos and Article By Traci Little

The Madison Local Schools Safety Town Graduation ceremonies took place last Friday, June 10, at 10 am and 2 pm.

This was the first session of the program in many years. The Safety Town program began this year on May 31 with a morning session from 9–11:30 am and an afternoon session from 1–3:30 pm. The program lasted for nine days and was free for all children.

The program’s goal was to promote safety education and 41 kids enrolled. The program is headed up by Jennifer Eckenwiler, preschool coordinator at Madison South, and Natasha Repp, principal of the Madison Early Childhood Learning Center.

The children had a blast learning all sorts of things and especially when the Madison Township Fire Department came to teach them about fire safety. They explored the fire truck and ambulance and loved getting a chance to spray the hose. Some other things the children learned throughout the program were bus safety, first aid, car safety, water safety, stranger danger and medication safety.

The Richland County Sheriff’s Department taught about being a police officer and the American Red Cross showed them how to be prepared for an emergency.

The children sang the “Traffic Light Song” and diplomas were handed out. Deputy VanHouten shook the graduate’s hands and congratulated them during the morning session.

IN 1964, the first Howe fire hand pumper was pictured with the new Ford Seagrave fire truck which was the beginning of the Troy Township Lexington Fire Department. Lawrence Kunkle and John Welch were volunteers.

THE FIREMEN AND FAMILIES had a picnic and the 1942 ex-Navy truck became a playground.

Big fires continue for Lexington

By Bob Carter

In last week's column, Lexington failed to support a good fire department and suffered fire losses.

Major fires wiped out the south side of W. Main St. and fire brought loss of the huge Frye Candy factory in 1907.

Things didn't start to change until 1914 when two young girls on Delaware Street were heating paraffin on a stove and a fire erupted. The girls had to run clear down town to summon help. By the time anyone arrived to help, their house and the one next door were lost and it was feared the, then new, Church of Christ building might be lost next. A bucket brigade managed to save it and a third house, which just suffered roof damage. Dry wood shingles would burn quickly when dry.

A call to Mansfield for help only brought the fire chief and a minister by car. The message was clear, "Get your own fire department!"

The potential loss of their new church building must have scared the hell out of the church members and others too. The result was a petition presented to the village mayor and council members at the next meeting. To that end, a committee was appointed to investigate the request and resulted in purchasing a hand pump fire wagon from the Howe Engine Co. of Indianapolis for $498.

The village had to issue bonds to pay for it. Finally, a step in the right direction.

But when the huge four story Cockley Mill mill burned in January of 1917, the hand pump proved to be inadequate.

A newspaper reported the fire this way, "When first seen, the flames were at the north end of the mill on the second floor and had gained considerable headway. Villagers with a hand engine proved unequal to the task of fighting the flames and with a hose that did not reach from the nearest water tap to the scene of the fire were powerless to save any portion of the building.

"The main building was fitted with modern machinery some of which had just been installed. The total loss was estimated at $200,000."

And so it went something like a Laurel and Hardy comedy until the village water system was installed sometime around 1936 or 1937. The town bought a pickup truck chassis and built their own body to suit.

A slight engineering principal was ignored, and with three or four good sized men on the back the front wheels left the ground. With low water pressure at the top of Delaware Street the pickup was traded to Ashland, for a 1917 Packard right hand drive with an open cab, a big search light, brass radiator and solid rubber wheels and was a chain drive fire engine with an "impulse" starter. The starter was its undoing.

At an alarm the first attempt was to try the starter. If that failed, hand cranking the big engine was next. If that failed, just go to the fire without the damned thing. Someone could stay behind and try to coax the blasted thing back to life. It was believed the right cuss words were required.

And so it went. Lexington was always behind with fire equipment. After World War II, Ralph Lutz arranged for the purchase of a 1942 Navy surplus Chevy fire truck. Citizens raised the money with donations, bake sales and any way to make money to pay for it. It was painted olive drab when it arrived and was kinda banged up. Volunteers pitched in. It was painted red by Bob Snyder in the funeral home garage. But it would always start!

All went well until around 1952 when the Lexington men went to a house fire north of town. That raised a big stink at the next council meeting. The town was, in their mind, unprotected while the fire boys were out of town and Troy Township contributed nothing for fire support. After a bitter protracted regular hog wrestle between the village and township trustees, the Troy Township Lexington Fire Department was born.

A brand new truck and fire station all helped the tax payers feel a bit more secure. Good God, it took long enough! The station is now maned 24 hours a day.

Jurassic World: Dominion is the third and thankfully last film in the Jurassic World trilogy. What started out with a promising first film has spiraled into a senseless and jumbled final entry that makes you appreciate Steven Spielberg's 1993 original even more.

Chris Pratt returns as Owen Grady as he and Claire (Bryce Dallas Howard) are in a secluded forest with the young cloned girl from the previous film, Fallen Kingdom. They are keeping her hidden as her and the velociraptor, Blue, are wanted by poachers and kidnappers to use as science experiments as now the dinosaurs roam the Earth. The young girl and Blue's baby are taken and Grady and Claire go to find them.

While on their hunt, Grady and Claire are eventually reunited with the original Jurassic Park cast members, Dr. Alan Grant (Sam Neill), Dr. Ellie Satler (Laura Dern) and Dr. Ian Malcom (Jeff Goldblum). Grant and Satler are at a new facility called BioSyn (which is a little too on the nose for an evil organization) and its CEO played by an underwhelming Campbell Scott who is breeding huge locusts to destroy the crops around the country and Satler and Grant have to figure out why.

All the while, these plot lines are happening, dinosaurs come in and out of the movie going after the various cast members though none of them seem in extreme peril.

The new, huge gigantosaur goes after the humans for a few minutes and then has a big showdown with the T-Rex. Been there done that.

Jurassic World: Dominion has such a boring plot and is way too dialogue heavy that it does not know what kind of movie it wants to be. It's only when all of the cast members team together does the movie get any sense of fun and enjoyment and that is only the last half hour.

It's too bad that such an engaging and fun franchise has just petered out like this. As of this writing, the movie is getting positive responses from audiences, assuming because the original cast is back and it's just cool to see dinosaurs on screen. I get it. I love Jurassic Park. This movie though is just fan service with a central plot about locusts... in a dinosaur movie. Even though it comes together at the end and there are at least a couple stand out chase sequences, Jurassic World: Dominion is a bore.

Mansfield Christian receives $25,000 grant from State Farm

In just 10 days this spring, 88,000 people cast more than 2 million votes in support of their favorite causes. As a result, 100 communities, in 34 states, including 13 Ohio organizations, will be getting an assist from State Farm®. The top 100 vote-getting causes that have won $25,000 grants to improve their communities.

Among the winners was Mansfield Christian School for a Multipurpose Greenhouse: Cultivating Life Skills.

Mandy Wushinske submitted information to be considered for the grant. She wrote, "COVID restrictions have limited the ability of a school to engage with the community at large. This multipurpose greenhouse would provide onsite, hands-on research training for students and real-world, life skills training for special education students. One component of training that would be beneficial to the community would be providing the students a chance to do multiple levels of horticultural research, including expanding on hydroponic research/design already started in our STEM classes.

"A second benefit to the community is providing job training for special education students. Students would learn essential business skills, while caring for plants and managing the greenhouse. This project would be a good example of urban agriculture that helps combat food insecurity. Students currently participate in a life skills class that focuses on preparing meals. An onsite greenhouse would give students an opportunity to grow their own vegetables to be used in food prep."

"In order to reach our goals of providing onsite, life skills training to students with disabilities, advancement in scientific research, as well as addressing the issue of food insecurity in our local area, there needs to be an investment in infrastructure.

"The infrastructure necessary to get this project started will include greenhouses($15,000.00), materials for the foundation($800), table/benches($7,000), supply of water and electricity ($2,000). In addition, there will need to be an investment in potting soils, growing trays, seeds, and manuals/texts to help the students and instructors in the instructional piece of the project($1,700). This funding would help us become fully operational and be able to have the greatest impact in the shortest amount of time."

"This program could be completely self-sustaining and self-perpetuating, providing for growth and expansion in the future. Goals of the life skills program are for students to develop problem solving skills, communication strategies, healthy work attitudes, and knowledge of budget basics. Practicing these skills in the greenhouse will provide meaningful application opportunities."

"Greenhouse income would be used to achieve the long-term goals, which include expanding the greenhouse and its offerings, hiring graduates of the program to work in the greenhouse, adding small gardens and selling 'locally grown' produce along with plants/flowers to the local community.

"In addition, by being a non-profit greenhouse the prices can be kept at a level that would allow greater access to fresh produce, thereby helping alleviate food insecurity within the city limits of Mansfield, Ohio. Students will gain valuable work and research experience, preparing them to impact Mansfield and beyond."

"State Farm is happy to celebrate its 100th anniversary by providing these 100 causes with grant money to help them address the needs in their communities," said Rasheed Merritt, assistant vice president at State Farm. "We look forward to seeing the impact these $25,000 grants will have."

Four thousand cause submissions were accepted in February at www.neighborhoodassist.com. The State Farm Review Committee selected the Top 200 finalists and public voting determined the Top 100. In the eleven years of the program, nearly 500 causes have received a total of $12.5 million to enact change in their communities.

For a complete list of this year's 100 winners visit www.neighborhoodassist.com.

Rubies working to help women find their way to a better life

Photos and Article By Traci Little

Imagine believing the lies of an abuser and doing whatever they say to make it all better. Imagine finding yourself in a broken and abusive marriage or becoming an addict to escape this reality. Imagine being sold by someone you love to help pay the bills. Imagine wanting to escape all of it but being scared for your life.

Sunday night, I had the honor of photographing some amazing women, men and children's baptisms. Although I only saw a glimpse into the growth and victories these men and women have experienced, it was truly powerful. They have been given a place that allows them to grow, be safe, be restored, discover and dream through the ministry of Rubies and also from a local home for men.

Rubies Womens Group, INC, is a non-profit organization that helps women find their worth through love and Jesus. It is a ministry that helps women who are struggling find a better life. It's been called the lighthouse in the storm.

Rubies was founded on the heart of a survivor/thriver, Candace Williams. She is a delivered addict who has been called to fulfill God's purpose for her to help even just one woman find her worth in Christ. Once her worth is realized, everything changes. Proverbs 31:10 says, "She is worth far more than rubies. The vision of rubies is to reach women that are in bondage through unconditional love, structure, and guidance. Through this process, the bondage is removed, and they are set free to be women of their worth. Rubies is an 12-18-month discipleship program centered around Christ our Lord and Savior for women struggling with addiction and/or coming out of human sex-trafficking. Detox is required prior to joining and no insurance is required.

A few being baptized shared their thoughts. "This is only the beginning of a lifetime walk with God," said Destinee Gibson. Forget what you knew about me. The Lord has worked miracles in me in the last 40 days; things I never thought I would witness and experience. Relationships I thought never would be mended. Chains I never thought would be shed and broken. My relationship with the Lord is eternal love and freedom. He has given me life. Candace is the mom I never had. The love and guidance I have been given are precious."

"The Lord has delivered me from 13 years of drug addiction," said Courtney Call. "I have restored relationships with family, especially my son, and sisters. All of my dreams are coming true because of God and my support/guidance from Rubies."

"I'm right where God has called me to be. I'm never going back to that life again. This is my new life," said Kelly Campbell. The Love, support, and guidance I receive, I've never experienced before Rubies. Candace is our momma bear and loves us, guides us, and teaches us to live with Jesus as the center of our lives."

Rubies allows women to discover themselves and their worth in Christ by learning to build a personal relationship with Jesus Christ, attending church, attending faith-based counseling, healing physically, mentally, and spiritually, becoming employed, learning life skills, mentoring, gaining family, integrating back into society with support.

Bible Studies allow the women to explore and learn the tools of the Bible. These studies are held daily including morning devotional and nightly retirement. The day begins focused on the Lord and finishes in His name.

A working program is available because working creates character and allows the staff to discover any issues a client may have in an employment environment. The women working allows Rubies to not require insurance as well as payment upon entrance and throughout the program. Employment will be gained through collaboration of companies in the community. The women are given the opportunity to obtain full-time employment after graduation.

Education programs allow women to build résumés and take GED, vocational/career building, life skills, budgeting and etiquette classes.

Rubies is family-oriented. Many women have never experienced a healthy family. At Rubies they eat together, pray together and work through their problems together. The definition of family is unconditional love and love conquers all. Faith-based counseling is provided.

Group and individual settings are available through the program. Faith-based books are used as curriculums. Faith-based counselors are available through Heritage Christian Counseling Ministries. The clients have one on one counseling with staff/mentors on a routine basis. One-on-one allows the client to discuss struggles, goals and an action plan to deal with the struggles and goals.

Rubies is a 501c3 that is run by donation only (<https://rubiesoutreach31.wixsite.com/my-site-2/donate>). There are other ways to donate besides monetary, such as volunteer opportunities and a list of needs. Get involved at <https://rubiesoutreach31.wixsite.com/my-site-2/get-involved>

The future vision for Rubies is expansion. They would love to have a bigger house or two for the purpose to house women, as well as have a house for women and children. The women from Rubies attend The ARC Empowerment Center, run by Joey and Amanda Nichols of ProjectONE (<http://www.arcempowermentcenter.com>)

Nine KCCC students earn Building Trades Elite Status

The Knox County Career Center Building Trades program recognized nine students who earned the status of "Building Trades Elite." "Building Trades Elite" (BT Elite) is a program generated by Colby Clippinger, KCCC Building Trades instructor, and the KCCC Building Trades Advisory Council that began in 2019-'20. The program's criteria centers around attendance, discipline, industry credentialing, and extracurricular activities.

A point system is set up where students earn points for attendance, grades, industry credentialing, and extracurricular activities. Students can lose points for being tardy, absent, and for discipline issues. In order to earn "BT Elite" status, students must earn 250 points and must maintain 250 points or higher until graduation to keep the "BT Elite" status.

The "BT Elite" program is completely company-sponsored according to Clippinger. Students who earn "BT Elite" status are awarded a hoodie and an interview shirt. The companies pay for the hoodies and interview shirts. The hoodie has the Building Trades Elite crest on the back along with the company sponsors. The student's name and "BT Elite" are on the front of the hoodie. The interview shirt has "BT Elite" and the student's name on the front.

Renaissance hosting summer camp

Registration has opened for the Renaissance's annual "Broadway Camp!" summer theatre program for students ages 8-13. The popular summer theatre camp sessions will be held as in-person classes, during the weeks of June 20-24; and June 27-30.

Broadway Camp! options include the traditional three-hour morning camp (June 20-24), as well as a new, day-long, six-hour "Broadway Camp Showz!" camp (June 27-30). All "Broadway Camp!" sessions are designed to be sensory-inclusive; with tuition set at $105. Full and partial scholarships are available.

The new, day-long "Broadway Camp Showz!" will allow participants to further explore the opportunity to present a fully staged Broadway Kids-style production. To participate in Broadway Camp Showz!, students must previously have completed a session of a two or three-hour Broadway Camp, or Broadway Camp, Too!

The Renaissance Broadway Camp! programs provide students of all ability levels with the freedom to explore the world of musical theatre and the elements of performance through theatre games, improv, and dramatic play, as well as staging and singing. Each camp session culminates in a special performance for parents, friends, and other guests.

Renaissance Broadway Camp! is coordinated and led by Renaissance teaching artist Dauphne Maloney, well-known for her work with youth theatre in the North Central Ohio area. Mrs. Maloney is also the founder and director of Mansfield Youth Theatre (MY Theatre), former Resident Director for the Renaissance Youth Opera Theatre (RYOT), and youth theatre director at the The Ohio State University-Mansfield. She has directed and costumed over 200 productions and served as the Youth Theatre Director for the Mansfield Playhouse for 20 years. Participating students will work directly with Maloney, as well as seasoned youth theatre actors.

Registration is limited. To register contact Dauphne Maloney at dauphne@mansfieldtickets.com, or by calling 419-522-2726, ext. 212. For more information or to ask questions regarding the camp, including information for those with sensory sensitivities, those seeking scholarships, or other needs, contact Maloney.

Knox County Career Center students earn certifications

The Knox County Career Center (KCCC) had 10 students who earned Microsoft MTA & Office certifications. The students are from the Computer Network Technology (CNT) program at KCCC.

The MTA certification is for individuals intending to build a career in desktop infrastructure, server infrastructure, or private cloud computing.

Candidates that successfully pass this exam will have knowledge of fundamental Windows operating system concepts in a Windows 10 environment. This certification addresses a wide spectrum of fundamental technical concepts, assesses and validates core technical knowledge, and enhances technical credibility.

The MTA Windows Operating System exam measures the following skills: understanding operating system configurations, installing and upgrading client systems, managing applications, managing files and folders, managing devices, and understanding operating system maintenance.

The Microsoft Office Specialist Word certification demonstrates competency in the correct application of the principal features of Word by creating and editing documents for a variety of purposes and situations.

The Microsoft Office Specialist Powerpoint certification demonstrates competency to create, edit, and enhance presentations and slideshows.

An individual earning a Microsoft Office Specialist certification has approximately 150 hours of instruction and hands-on experience with the product, has proven competency at an industry associate level, and is ready to enter the job market.

They can demonstrate the correct application of the principal features of Word and Power-Point.

In order to earn these certifications, each student had to pass a proctored exam with no access to learning materials or the Internet. This certification is recognized by the Ohio Department of Education and the Information Technology (IT) industry as a recognized credential.

STUDENTS IN MRS. RHODES' Career and College Readiness class at Ontario High School learned about taxes and tax forms. They calculated gross pay for hourly and salary employees and included overtime. They learned about reading and understanding paychecks, paystubs, deductions, and how to fill out a W-4 form.

MRS. RHODES' GLOBAL FOODS class students at Ontario High School worked on a food truck entrepreneurial project. The project consisted of four parts: learning the background of entrepreneurship, creating a 3D model food truck, making a dish from their food truck menu, and a presentation of their whole project.

Second annual Family Fun on the Farm Festival set for June 25

We continue to live in times where food supplies may be compromised. The events of the last few years have brought attention to and awareness of where food comes from, and an emphasis on locally produced food.

To continue to raise awareness on where food comes from, Richland Soil and Water Conservation District (Richland SWCD) is teaming up with Richland County's favorite public farm, Malabar Farm State Park, to sponsor Family Fun on the Farm Festival Saturday, June 25 at Malabar Farm from 2-6 pm. The festival is open to the public and admission is free. There are many fun activities planned to celebrate summer's bounty of garden grown food, especially for children.

Children are invited to make seed bombs, plant green beans in a recycled egg carton, build a greenhouse in a bag, and learn how to save seeds. They will get to watch seedlings grow and enjoy their own fresh green beans this summer.

There will be interactive weaving for children with something to take home and young children can let their imaginations run wild at the Imagination Stations.

Families will have the opportunity to visit with alpacas and farm animals; walk through history with antique farm equipment, try out archery; and fish at the pond by the Big House. Fishing is free for those 15 years-old and younger.

The agriculture and conservation trivia wheel offers a chance to win prizes. The festival also allows for slower paced activities such as story time for children, a relaxing ride on the farm wagon and live music.

Food trucks and vendors will have tasty treats and beverages for sale. There will also be a variety of fresh food items for sale like micro greens, herb and vegetable plants and honey.

While at the festival, connect with other Family Fun on the Farm participants Buehler's Food Truck, CaliFarmer, Jonny Ohio Music, Little Buckeye Children's Museum, Mansfield/Richland County Public Library, NECIC, Ohio Bird Sanctuary, Ohio Department of Natural Resources-Div. of Wildlife, Richland County Emergency Management Agency, Richland County Farm Bureau, Richland Public Health, Shady Lane Farm, the Buckeye Iron Will Club, OSU Extension-Richland County 4-H, Richland County Area Beekeepers Association, Bloom Haven Farm, The Roaming Donut, YWCA CCR&R, Paul & Kimberly Ault, Lionheart Medicinal Gardens, Chocolates and More, Exclusively Yours, Food Tour, Fiberarts Guild at Malabar Farm, High Desert Greens, Kingwood Center Gardens, Richland County Solid Waste, Richland Newhope/Richland County Board of Developmental Disabilities, and Westfield Tropical Sno.

UH Samaritan to host remembrance

University Hospitals Samaritan Medical Center is hosting a Day of Remembrance & Resilience on June 27 at 7 pm to remember those who lost their lives to COVID-19 while also uplifting those who have recovered from the virus and honoring first responders and essential workers who helped their communities during the pandemic.

Everyone in Ashland County and surrounding communities is invited to join us. June 27 marks the date of the first recorded death from COVID in Ashland County in 2020. 218 Ashland County residents have lost their lives to COVID-19 and there have been more than 12,165 cases.

The half-hour ceremony will take place in the west parking lot of the hospital, 1025 Center St. Those attending should look for the white tent and park in the Dale Roy parking lot, 1256 Center St. Only handicapped individuals will be permitted to park in the main hospital parking lot to ensure our patients' visitors and families have adequate parking. Please do not park on surrounding streets as that space will be reserved for EMS, fire and law enforcement.

Sylvia Radziszewski, COO, UH Samaritan Medical Center, will begin with a welcome at 7 pm, followed by Mayor Matt Miller and Pastor Eric Able. Rebekah Smith, music therapist, will perform and a candle lighting ceremony will be held.

STINGEL ELEMENTARY had field days on May 17 and 18 for all students. Students participated in many fun activities planned by Mr. Gates, the physical education teacher.

Northwest Ohio Communities receive $8.4 million in financing

Communities in Northwest Ohio are receiving approximately $8.4 million in low-interest rate and principal forgiveness funding from Ohio EPA to improve wastewater and drinking water infrastructure and make other water quality improvements.

These loans (financed through the states revolving fund) were approved between Jan. 1 and March 31, 2022. The lower interest rates and principal forgiveness will save these communities more than $2.2 million.

By investing in drinking water and wastewater infrastructure, we are working toward a better quality of life for all Ohioans, said Governor DeWine. Water issues exist everywhere, and these infrastructure projects help ensure that these community-level, basic public services are safe and reliable for generations to come.

The Natural Areas Land Conservancy is receiving $2.35 million for a project that will protect 417 acres of land at Black Fork Preserve at Charles Mill Lake. The project includes 117 acres of high-quality wetlands, 203 acres of a 100-year flood zone, 187 acres of upland habitat, and 7,295 feet of streams and ditches (including high quality headwaters which flow to Black Fork Mohican River). The funding is from the Water Resource Restoration Sponsor Program (WRRSP) — the Northeast Ohio Regional Sewer District in Cleveland is directing a portion of the interest to be repaid on its $201 million loan for its Shoreline Sewage Tunnel Storage project.

Created in 1989, the Water Pollution Control Loan Fund (WPCLF) helps communities improve their wastewater treatment systems. The Water Supply Revolving Loan Account (WSRLA), started in 1998, provides loans for improvements to community drinking water systems and nonprofit, noncommunity public water systems. Both programs offer below-market interest rate loans, which can save communities a substantial amount of money compared to a market-rate loan.

Alzheimer's programs coming to Ontario later this month

The Alzheimer's Association Northwest Ohio Chapter is hosting two consecutive in-person educational programs in Ontario about warning signs of Alzheimer's disease and dementia, and healthy lifestyle choices to protect the brain and body.

The programs, being offered free to the community, will be held at the Area Agency on Aging at Hawkins Corner, located at 2131 Park Ave. W. in Ontario, on Monday, June 27.

The programs are "10 Warning Signs of Alzheimer's," from 10-10:30 am and "Healthy Living for Your Brain and Body," from 10:30-11 am.

During the first program, 10 Warning Signs of Alzheimer's, participants will learn how to recognize common signs of the disease, including memory loss, challenges with problem-solving, confusion with time or place and withdrawal from social activities.

Learn how to approach someone about memory concerns; the importance of early detection and benefits of a diagnosis; possible tests and assessments for the diagnostic process; and Alzheimer's Association resources.

Immediately following will be the Healthy Living for Your Brain and Body program, which will teach participants about the latest research regarding the connection between body health and brain health. Attendees will learn about diet and nutrition, exercise, cognitive activity and social engagement and how to use hands-on tools to help incorporate the latest recommendations into a plan for healthy aging.

Pre-registration is required by calling 800-272-3900.

Those who are concerned about themselves or a loved one can contact the Alzheimer's Association Northwest Ohio Chapter at 419-537-1999 to schedule a care consultation and be connected with local resources that can help.

Connecting young Ohioans to manufacturing partners

By Senator Sherrod Brown

Every summer for ten years now, our office partners with local companies and organizations to host manufacturing camps for fourth through eighth graders across Ohio. It's an opportunity to introduce our kids to all the opportunities available to them in our state.

When kids hear the word "manufacturing," too often they think about dirty, dusty old jobs, and the outdated, offensive term "rust belt." It demeans our workers and devalues their work.

We are burying that term in Ohio – from Intel jobs coming to Columbus, to the aerospace industry in Dayton and GE Aviation in Cincinnati, to the largest solar manufacturer in the country in Toledo, to space nuclear technology at NASA Glenn in Cleveland.

These are the kinds of opportunities Ohio students will have, and we want to open these doors for them. Too often, our students don't realize all the opportunities available to them in the manufacturing industry. That's why, a decade ago, we came up with the idea to host these camps.

For the last couple of years, many of the camps have changed because of the pandemic – but all over the state, leaders got creative and worked to put together virtual camps. This year we are back in-person with at least 24 in-person camps for kids across 17 Ohio counties.

In past summers, students in Ross County participated in hands-on robotics activities, while campers in Geauga County attended an aerospace engineering institute, and kids in Mahoning County built model homes out of recycled material, experimented with wind turbines, and built their own smart clocks.

This year, at the Makers of Tomorrow camp in Summit County, students will learn how to make plastic with sustainable materials. Our camp in Defiance is focused on food manufacturing and agribusiness, and will include visits to local manufacturers. In Mahoning County, campers will learn about coding and in Fairfield County, campers will focus on robotics. In Richland County, the Camp will be focused on supply chains – an issue we know is so important to Ohioans' lives right now.

If we're going to compete with China, we need Ohioans of all ages to realize all the opportunities available to them in these industries, and we need to make sure they're good jobs where people can build careers and see a future.

Association applauds record investment in school safety grants

The Ohio School Boards Association (OSBA) reacted to the signing of House Bill (HB) 687 by Gov. Mike DeWine. The capital appropriations bill contains $100 million in school safety grants for physical security enhancement, equipment or inspection and screening equipment to improve the overall physical security and safety of school buildings.

"We commend Gov. DeWine, President Huffman and Speaker Cupp for their tremendous investment in protecting our students and staff when they come to school," OSBA Chief Executive Officer Rick Lewis said.

"The age and condition of Ohio's public school buildings vary greatly and so too do their physical security needs. These critically needed resources will help school leaders implement 21st century security technologies and strengthen their ability to prepare for, prevent and respond to violent acts.

"The demand for this funding could not be greater. Out of the roughly 1,500 schools that applied for the first round of $5 million from the School Safety Grant Program, only 89 schools received funding. The governor referred to this round of funding as a 'beginning downpayment.' We look forward to working with his office and legislative leaders in the General Assembly to continue this extraordinary commitment and ensure our local schools have the tools they need to keep their communities safe."

The $100 million in school safety grants is supported by federal funding from the American Rescue Plan Act and will be administered by Ohio Facilities Construction Commission (OFCC) using procedures determined after consultation with the Ohio Department of Education and Ohio Department of Public Safety. Schools that have had their facilities constructed or renovated under any facilities assistance programs in the last five years or received a grant under the existing School Safety Grant Program are prohibited from receiving grants.
