National Mentoring Month shines light on the power of connection at Mid-Ohio Youth Mentoring

By Traci Little

January is National Mentoring Month, a time dedicated to celebrating the impact caring adults can have on the lives of young people. In north-central Ohio, Mid-Ohio Youth Mentoring is using the month to both honor existing mentor relationships and invite new volunteers to step forward — especially men willing to mentor young boys and teens.

Mid-Ohio Youth Mentoring is a nonprofit organization based in Mansfield, Ohio. Formerly known as Big Brothers Big Sisters of North Central Ohio, the organization has served local youth for more than 20 years. Its mission is to connect children with caring adult mentors who encourage, support and help them succeed in life. Its vision is that all children have the help they need to succeed.

The program focuses on outcomes such as increased self-confidence, improved academic success, healthier relationships, and reduced involvement in risky behaviors. These results consistently exceed national averages for mentoring programs.

Serving Youth Across the Region

Mid-Ohio Youth Mentoring serves children ages 5–16 from diverse family backgrounds throughout Richland, Crawford, and Ashland counties. Children are referred by parents or guardians, schools, counselors, and community partners. Each child is matched with a mentor based on shared interests, personality, and availability.

Mentors complete an application, interview, and background check before being matched and are supported by professional staff throughout the relationship. Ongoing guidance, resources, and regular check-ins ensure that both mentors and mentees feel supported and equipped.

The organization offers two primary mentoring models:

- Community-Based Mentoring, where adult mentors and children spend time together in the community a few hours each month doing everyday activities centered on friendship and connection.
- High School Bigs Mentoring, where high school students mentor younger children through structured after-school programs in schools and community centers, including the Friendly House.

A Mentoring Match Built to Last: Adison and Jada

One example of the program's impact can be seen in the mentoring relationship between Adison Turnbaugh and her mentee, Jada.

Adison, a junior at Ashland University and a student-athlete on the women's soccer team, was matched with Jada on Aug. 14, 2025. Jada is an energetic 11-year-old who loves dance, being outdoors, and staying active. Despite busy schedules filled with school, competitive dance, and college athletics, the two make time to connect at least once a month.

Over the past several months, Adison and Jada have shared ice cream dates, slime-making parties, pumpkin carving, movie outings, and trampoline park adventures.

"Jada is so fun to be around and is always excited to try new things," Turnbaugh said. "She's an amazing dancer and loves to make TikToks. I truly see this relationship lasting for years."

Turnbaugh credits Mid-Ohio Youth Mentoring with making the experience accessible and meaningful. The organization provides mentors with activity ideas, gift cards, passes, and monthly communications highlighting upcoming events, making it easier to consistently plan quality time together.

"As a student-athlete, those resources make a big difference," she said. "Mid-Ohio Youth Mentoring does an outstanding job supporting both mentors and mentees, and I'm incredibly grateful for the opportunity to be part of Jada's life."

Black History Celebration returns to main library branch February 7

The Mansfield/Richland County Public Library (MRCPL) invites the community to its annual Black History Celebration, a free, family-friendly event honoring Black history, culture, and achievement. The celebration will take place at the Main Library, 43 W. Third St., Mansfield, on Saturday, Feb. 7, from 11 am to 3 pm.

This year's celebration carries special significance as February 2026 marks the 100th anniversary of Black History celebrations in the United States. The observance began in 1926 as Negro History Week, founded by historian Carter G. Woodson, and later expanded into Black History Month in 1976 when it was formally recognized under President Gerald Ford.

The day's festivities will include live entertainment, trivia, face painting, giveaways, interactive activities, and a free meal. Programming begins at 11 am in the second-floor lobby, featuring a performance by the Mansfield Senior Choir students, who will open with "Lift Every Voice and Sing," followed by additional selections.

A free meal prepared by local caterer Glynis Haney will be served from 11:30–12:30 pm, while supplies last. Attendees will also have the opportunity to connect with several local organizations offering activities and resources, including the Alzheimer's Association, NAACP Mansfield, North End Community Improvement Collaborative (NECIC), Richland County Children's Services, First Call 211, Ohio State University–Mansfield Black Student Association, and Third Street Family Health Services.

At 2:30 pm, the library's Sherman Room will host "Roots at 50: Reimagining the Legacies of Lineage." Fifty years after its publication, this engaging program explores how Alex Haley's ground-

THE ENTERTAINMENT EXAMINER

— By Ian Stumbo —

One of the biggest surprises on Oscar nomination morning this past Thursday was the inclusion of Kate Hudson in the lead actress lineup for her performance in Song Sung Blue, a movie based on a true story about a couple who started a successful Neil Diamond tribute act in 90s.

Hugh Jackman stars as Mike, a struggling tribute artist who is immediately smitten with Hudson's character Claire who is performing as Patsy Cline.

She soon joins him in his act, they get married and make headlines as one of the best Neil Diamond tribute acts around.

Jackman and Hudson shine in this movie and both show off their natural singing abilities and talents.

Both characters have a lot of struggle throughout the film especially Claire and Hudson gives a terrific performance as she has to balance the musical aspect as well as several emotional and physical aspects of the character.

Jim Belushi is also well cast as their manager and Michael Imperioli as a Buddy Holly impersonator and later bandmate.

I personally enjoy true stories like this about people

I have never heard of and really came out of the movie invested in these characters and their lives not to mention any Neil Diamond fan should certainly see this movie as his music is featured throughout.

Song Sung Blue is a very well done biography of two people and their ups and downs in life. Hugh Jackman and Kate Hudson are terrific together and light up the screen with their story and their music.

Memorial Arrangements

Rodger W. Craig

LEXINGTON: No one ever accused Rodger W. Craig of being a boring teacher. A class with "Mr. Craig" was less of a required course and more of an experience in learning. Rodger included all five senses to communicate with his students in an energetic and animated way that helped them retain the information — and more than that — helped them critically think and learn.

William Arthur Ward said, "The mediocre teacher tells, the good teacher explains, the superior teacher demonstrates, and the great teacher inspires." Given that maxim, Rodger Craig was a great teacher.

All of the lessons Rodger needed to teach have passed as he entered into the Lord's care Sunday evening Jan. 18, 2026 from OhioHealth Mansfield Hospital. He was 89.

Born June 1, 1936 in Mansfield to parents Robert Willard and Bessie Florence (Kempton) Craig, Rodger was raised in Chesterville and graduated from Chester Franklin High School in 1955. He earned his Bachelor's degree in physics & mathematics with a minor in chemistry in 1960 from Otterbein University. He began his teaching career at Lexington High School teaching chemistry, physics & mathematics. He also served as Science Coordinator for Mansfield City Schools from 1966 to 1967.

Earning his Master's degree in Chemistry in just one year from the University of Northern Iowa in 1970, Rodger switched to a focus on teaching chemistry, including AP chemistry classes. In all, he taught with passion, mostly in "his" Chemistry Lab, for 42 years with Lexington Local Schools and retired in 1993...the first time.

Following his first retirement, he and another teacher friend started building houses. But after four years, Rodger's love for teaching called him back to the classroom - the same classroom in the "Old Red Brick Building" where his career began with the Lexington District. He retired again in 2002. He was a member of the Ohio Education Association and National Education Association.

As animated and busy out of the classroom as in, Rodger had served as a volunteer Boy Scout leader, manager of the Clear Fork Hills Swim Club, and was active in the Lexington school community and Lakewood Tennis Club. He led the Lexington High School Chess Club, coached JV Basketball and both LHS boys and girls tennis teams. "Coach Craig" led the boys tennis team to multiple district and state tournaments. He was also a member of the Lexington Lions Club.

Rodger was active in his everyday life, enjoying tennis, ping-pong, biking, the pool and virtually every sport. His mind was just as active through playing chess, research at the library and listening to classic country music. In recent years he might best be known around town and OSU as "Mr Buckeye."

A former member and elder of the Linden Road United Presbyterian Church, he was currently a member of Lexington Presbyterian Church. He was very active in the church, having taught adult & youth Sunday school classes, led youth groups and summer camps, and actively participated in the administration of the church. He most recently served as head of Session for Lexington Presbyterian, and was dedicated to the care of the church and property. Most days, his travels around town would include a trip to the church to "check on things."

Rodger will be remembered for his faith - he was so devoted to the Lord, as well as his church family. His favorite scripture was John 3:16. He will also be remembered as a mentor to generations of students, teams, and his family. He loved with a heart of service and his sense of humor kept him quick with a joke to make you laugh.

He is survived by his wife, lovingly referred to as "His #1 Girl", Geraldine "Jerry" (Kulpa) Craig, whom he married Aug. 22, 1964; their sons Anthony (Tamara) Craig in Erie, PA, and Michael (Frank Gotoc) Craig of Belmar, NJ; Grandchildren Dustin (Jennifer Sabour) Craig of Ronkonkoma, NY and Briana (Shane) Edwards of Erie, PA; great grandchildren Taylynn Edwards and Kellen Edwards; sister Sandra Sue (Charles) Kunze of Lincolnton, NC; and numerous nieces and nephews.

In addition to his parents, he was preceded in death by brothers Willard Craig and Frederick Craig, and sisters Dorothy Salter, Kathryn Young and Marlyn Hunt.

The Craig family will receive friends and past students Saturday, Jan. 31, from 2-4 pm in the Lexington Avenue Snyder Funeral Home, where a celebration of his life will follow at 4 pm. Pastor Denny Nezrick will officiate, with Pastor Jack Sharp assisting. Private interment will be in Oak Grove Memorial Park in Lexington at a later date.

In lieu of flowers, contributions in Rodger's memory may be made to Lexington Presbyterian Church, Compassus Hospice, or OhioHealth Foundation may be made at the funeral home.

Share a message of support with them online and watch Rodger's tribute video at SnyderFuneralHomes.com

Pat Kracker Breast Cancer Fund to honor Steve Cobb and Garbage Guys Who Care this October

Steve Cobb, Garbage Guys Who Care founder, recently passed away. In October of this year, during National Breast Cancer Awareness Month, the Pat Kracker Breast Cancer Fund will honor Steve and the new ownership of Garbage Guys Who Care for their ongoing commitment to fighting breast cancer in Richland County.

"Garbage Guys Who Care has donated over $150,000 since 2012 to fight breast cancer here locally," says Dave Kracker, Founder of the Pat Kracker Breast Cancer Fund. "Steve Cobb's ingenuity and leadership prompted him to provide a portion of his company's profits to our cause. His business is the only business that has dedicated a portion of their monthly profits to our Fund. He then looked for ways to help and make his new garbage company stand out. His pink trucks and trash cans began what is now local history."

2026 will be the 30th year in which the Pat Kracker Breast Cancer Fund has provided financial and emotional support before, when, and after breast cancer strikes Richland County women.

"The Pat Kracker Breast Cancer Fund has always been supported by Richland County residents, businesses, and media to help Richland County residents navigate the tidal wave of emotions and financial pain caused by this horrible disease," says Rhonda Breit, Pat Kracker Breast Cancer Fund Chairperson.

Garbage Guys Who Care has committed to continuing the financial support Steve Cobb started. Steve founded Garbage Guys Who Care and its refuse operations in 2012 serving customers in Ontario, Lexington, Lucas, and Mansfield. Residents who live in these communities who would like to sign up for trash service, support a great cause, and get a pink trash can should call GGWC at 419-522-9018.

For additional information contact Rhonda Breit at 419-610-4877.

•National Mentoring Month shines light on the power of connection at Mid-Ohio Youth Mentoring

As a youth participant with Mid-Ohio Youth Mentoring, Jada shared how much her mentoring relationship means to her.

"I like BIGS," she said, using the term many youth still use for their mentor. "I'm not bored anymore. 'I like my Big because she's nice and she has good taste in music — it's like my music — and she has a good personality. Everybody should have a Big because you get to get out of the house and do fun stuff. Everything we do is cool.'"

A Growing Need for Male Mentors

While stories like Addison and Jada's highlight the positive impact of mentoring, many children in the community are still waiting to be matched. Mid-Ohio Youth Mentoring currently has a significant need for male mentors, particularly for young boys and teenage males who are seeking a positive, consistent male role model.

Program staff emphasize that mentoring is not about having all the answers.

"These kids are looking for someone who will show up, listen, and care," staff shared. "A dependable male presence can be life-changing."

As National Mentoring Month continues, Mid-Ohio Youth Mentoring encourages men across the region to consider stepping into this role. Even a small monthly time commitment can make a lasting difference in a child's confidence, choices, and future.

How to Get Involved

Community members interested in becoming a mentor, enrolling a child, or supporting the program can contact Mid-Ohio Youth Mentoring, 380 N. Mulberry St., Mansfield, at 419-525-4618.

Mentoring is about building relationships — and sometimes, simply showing up is enough to change a life.

Jada and her mentor Addison

MID-OHIO YOUTH MENTORING held its MYM Museum Mash-Up night on Jan. 17 at the Buckeye Imagination Museum in Mansfield. This night gave mentors and mentees a chance to get together for a fun event. Those attending were treated to pizza and dessert, balloon animals and crafts. The cost of the party was partially offset by a grant from the United Way of Richland County and their Student Allocation Group. The Engage Richland group of young professionals have also been supporting recruitment efforts over the past few months. At the event, community members who are curious about mentoring, but not quite ready to commit to a full year, were paired with a child on the waiting list just for the day.

Culver's breaks ground on new Ashland location

Photos and Article By Traci Little

ASHLAND — Despite frigid temperatures, a large crowd of community leaders, business representatives and excited residents gathered last Thursday morning to celebrate the official groundbreaking of Culver's of Ashland, marking a major step forward for one of the city's most anticipated new restaurants.

The ceremony took place at the future site of the restaurant at the corner of U.S. Route 250 and County Road 1575 (Montgomery Road), where construction is now underway. Hosted in partnership with the Ashland Area Chamber of Commerce, the event included remarks from local officials and Culver's representatives, followed by a ceremonial shovel-turning to kick off the project.

Ashland's Mayor, Matt Miller, welcomed attendees by acknowledging both the cold weather and the broader significance of the moment.

"We appreciate you being here on one of the coldest days of the year," Miller said with a smile. "But the good news is, every day is wonderful in Ashland. Some days are more wonderful than others — and here we are again as our city continues to be on the rise."

He thanked the crowd for showing support not only for Culver's, but for the momentum happening across the community.

"We get to be a part of the transformation," he said. "That is what is happening in the Ashland community. We've been to a number of groundbreakings and ribbon cuttings recently, and it's wonderful to see all the progress happening in our lifetime."

Miller also expressed gratitude to the Lehar family and the Culver's organization for investing in a long-dormant corner of the city.

"Not only do I want to thank you for crispy ButterBurgers, creamy cheese curds and delightful custard," he said, drawing laughs from the crowd. "Most importantly, I want to thank you for investing in this corner. We who live here have seen this corner be dormant for more than a decade."

He noted that the project opens the door for additional development along the corridor.

"They are responsible for pushing over the first domino that's going to start the chain that introduces a number of significant retailers and commercial establishments," he said.

Before introducing the next speaker, Miller also took a moment to recognize Ashland City Council members in attendance for their role in helping make the project possible.

"We've got Angela Woodward, Dennis Miller, Steve Workman, and Dan Lawson here. They were part of helping us put together the incentive package to bring the Culver's here, so thank you very much for that."

State Rep. Melanie Miller then welcomed Culver's to Ashland, praising the company's values and legacy.

"When we heard that this would be possible, we were very excited," Miller said. "We want to welcome you to the great city of Ashland. Hearing your history and your legacy, you really are a perfect fit. The values that we share here in the city of Ashland — and quite honestly, the great state of Ohio — are the same values you represent."

Miller said the state remains committed to supporting entrepreneurs and business growth.

"We want to continue to make our state even more business friendly, so people can become entrepreneurs, grow their businesses, and live here, work here, raise a family, and thrive," she said.

On behalf of the state of Ohio, Miller presented Culver's with an official proclamation signed by herself and the Speaker of the House.

"It's my honor to present this proclamation to Culver's, to Scoopie, and the team on this very special occasion," she said. "We look forward to having many, many ButterBurgers in the days to come."

Franchise owner Ryan Lehar then took the microphone, thanking the crowd for braving the cold and calling it the largest turnout he had ever seen for a groundbreaking.

"It's pretty incredible, especially with this temperature, so thank you for that," Lehar said.

He gave a few local shoutouts, including the Sweetest Bug for custom cookies and Goldberry Roasting Company for providing hot cocoa, before sharing his personal journey with Culver's.

"I graduated from Woodridge High School in Akron and originally went to school for chemical engineering," Lehar said. "I decided burgers were more my forte than chemical engineering, so I switched over to that."

Lehar said he spent eight years working his way up within Culver's before becoming an owner.

"I started off as a team member, just working on the grill while I was going to college for business management," he said. "What I appreciated most about this company was the culture."

He introduced several team members who will help launch the Ashland location, emphasizing Culver's family-oriented values.

"This is truly a family business for us — I do this with my mom, my dad and my brother," he said. "It's incredible to be a part of all this."

Lehar also shared a personal connection to Ashland, noting he had once been recruited to play football there in 2012 before choosing a different career path.

"I love the city of Ashland," he said.

He spoke about Culver's commitment to community involvement, including supporting youth sports, volunteering, and honoring local residents.

"We're super involved with a ton of different things in the community," Lehar said.

Known for its ButterBurgers, fresh frozen custard and Wisconsin cheese curds, Culver's has developed a strong following across Ohio, and anticipation for the Ashland location has been building for months.

Chamber leaders praised the investment as a positive sign of continued economic growth in the area.

This is a wonderful addition to our community," said a representative of the Ashland Area Chamber of Commerce. "Projects like this show that Ashland continues to be a great place to do business and invest in the future."

The new restaurant is expected to employ approximately 60–65 team members once open, creating new job opportunities for the area. The building will be a 4,300-plus-square-foot facility, designed to include a drive-thru and modern dining area to accommodate both dine-in and carry-out customers.

Construction is expected to continue through the spring, with Culver's projected to open in summer 2026. Once completed, the restaurant will add another dining option to Ashland's growing commercial landscape and serve as a gathering place for families, students and travelers alike.

For more information about Culver's and future job opportunities at the Ashland location, visit culvers.com or follow Culver's of Ashland on social media.

BLOOM Nutrition & Drink Bar brings fresh energy to Ashland

Photos and Article By Traci Little

ASHLAND — A fresh splash of color, creativity, and clean energy has arrived in downtown Ashland with the opening of BLOOM Nutrition & Drink Bar, a vibrant new concept created by longtime local business owner Megan Steffen.

Located inside Whoopsie Daisy Bowtique at 126 E. Main St. — with entrances from both Main Street and Second Street — BLOOM officially celebrated its grand opening and ribbon cutting on Dec. 13 of last year. Since then, the response from the community has been overwhelmingly positive, as curious customers stop in to explore everything from protein-packed teas to kid-friendly boba drinks.

Steffen, who has owned Whoopsie Daisy Bowtique for 15 years, said the idea for BLOOM grew out of both personal need and a changing downtown landscape.

"I noticed there was a shift happening on Main Street," Steffen said. "There were more restaurants, bars, and things to do, and I felt like there was a niche open for something new and different."

As a wife to Matthew and mom to five busy kids — Hayden, Blake, Maddie, Isabelle, and Gwen — Steffen said she often found herself forgetting to eat or reaching for unhealthy caffeine options just to keep up with daily life.

"I wanted something better for myself," she said. "Busy moms and athletes can really benefit from clean protein drinks and energy drinks to keep up with their busy lives."

The name BLOOM also carries a personal meaning. Steffen's favorite flowers are daisies, and the brand plays off that cheerful, uplifting theme — encouraging people to "bloom" into their best selves with nourishing and healthier beverage options.

BLOOM's menu features a wide variety of caffeinated and non-caffeinated options, including loaded teas, protein shakes, hydration drinks, lemonades, coffees, and its newest fan favorite — Dirty Sodas.

"Dirty sodas are here!" Steffen said with a laugh. "You can mix and match any soda with any of our yummy flavors or pick from one of our delicious pre-made ones. Pop it, mix it, dirty it up."

Just in time for Valentine's Day, BLOOM has also rolled out a playful themed drink menu that adds a little romance — and a lot of flavor — to the experience. The limited-time lineup includes Love Spell

(strawberry, kiwi, coconut), Wild Heart (watermelon, passionfruit), Juliet (blackberry, raspberry, mango), Romeo (pineapple, peach, blue blast), Sour Pucker (lime, green apple, blue blast), Cupid's Kiss (strawberry, fruit punch, cherry), Flirtini (lime, strawberry, cranberry), and Candy Hearts (orange, rainbow candy).

"These are just meant to be fun," Steffen said. "It's a cute way for couples, friends, and families to celebrate Valentine's Day together while still enjoying our clean, sugar-free drinks."

The shop also offers kid-friendly options like boba teas and colorful lemonades, making it a family-friendly stop in the heart of downtown. But BLOOM doesn't stop at drinks.

Inside Whoopsie Daisy Bowtique, children can host birthday parties where they build their own stuffed animals, browse clothing, or enjoy creative spa stations where they make shower gels, lip gloss, and other goodies. There's even a playful "creepy crawl" version of shower gel that lets kids add toy insects — a hit with many young boys.

"Not everyone is familiar with a nutrition shop, so people are really intrigued," Steffen said. "The response from the community has been so great and so supportive."

Downtown Ashland itself has played a major role in BLOOM's story.

"Being downtown has just become part of my identity," Steffen said. "Adding BLOOM to my already established store just seemed to fit. One by one, different businesses have come down to support me like they always have. Our little town is for sure someplace special."

Opening a second business wasn't easy, Steffen admitted, but she credits friends, family, and her team for helping bring the vision to life.

"People told me I was taking on a huge project," she said. "And I'd say, 'What, like it's hard?!' But honestly — opening a new business, especially a food service business, is not easy. I'm so thankful to everyone who painted, cleaned, researched, tasted, and helped me just do the dang thing."

BLOOM also keeps things fresh with special events and new drink drops. Along with the Valentine's Menu, on Thursday, Jan. 29 at 6 pm, BLOOM will host a Cookie Decorating Class featuring buttercream tips, light snacks, and nine cookies to take home. Tickets are available through Square, and BLOOM will be open for drinks during the event.

New drinks continue to roll out as well, including a Blueberry Mega Tea packed with antioxidants and vitamins. "It's never too cold for a 32-ounce cup of clean energy," Steffen joked.

BLOOM Nutrition & Drink Bar is open Monday through Wednesday from 6:30 am to 2 pm, Thursday and Friday from 6:30 am to 5 pm, and Saturday from 8 am to 3 pm.

For Steffen, BLOOM is more than just a drink bar — it's a reflection of her family, her faith in her community, and her passion for helping others feel their best.

"This is my 'why,'" she said. "My family keeps me pretty busy, and I wanted something more — not just for me, but for Ashland. I look forward to serving fun, sugar-free beverages and being part of what makes downtown so special."

Hillsdale honors seniors, cruises past Rittman on senior night

Photos and Article By Traci Little

Hillsdale celebrated Senior Night last Thursday evening, honoring five seniors before the opening tip and cruising to a 51-14 victory over Rittman in varsity girls basketball action.

Prior to the game, the Falcons recognized seniors Kennedy Fickes, Myah Houser, Emma Linder, Macy Mager and Ally Morgan for their dedication, leadership, and contributions to the program. The ceremony set the tone for an emotional and energetic night inside the gym.

Once play began, Hillsdale took control early with aggressive defense and an up-tempo offense, building a decisive lead and maintaining it throughout the contest. The Falcons forced turnovers, controlled the pace, and shared the ball well en route to the win.

Senior Kennedy Fickes led the way with 10 points, knocking down multiple three-pointers while providing steady leadership throughout the night. Fellow senior Myah Houser added 8 points.

Rittman faced challenges finding an offensive rhythm against Hillsdale's defensive pressure but continued to compete throughout the game.

The Falcons continue to build momentum heading into the final stretch of their season.
