GENERAL MOTORS bought out the Rapid Motor Vehicle Company in 1909 and produced its first GMC truck in 1912. Pictured is believed to be a 1919 or 1921 model.

Early truck drivers were tough men

By Bob Carter

Modern trucks are quite comfortable. But if you drove a heavy truck in the late teens or early 1920s, you had to be tough as nails. In the summer they were not air conditioned. With summer air and heat from the engine, even if one unrolled the side curtains, it was not very pleasant.

In winter it was another story. The only heat might have come from the engine firewalls (there was no heater), but the flapping side curtains released any sign of warmth for the poor driver. The driver had to dress very warm.

The truck pictured above appears to be a very early GMC with chain drive and solid rubber tires. It belonged to the Standard Oil Company and was no doubt delivering gasoline and kerosene. Some kerosene was used for home cooking stoves and rural lighting. A few early farm tractors ran on the stuff too.

The coming age of the automobile was thirsting for the gas. John D. Rockefellar built his fortune on fuels. It filled his bank accounts. The early truck drivers suffered and were paid very little - but it was a job. It beat a team of horses.

A true story is told about the weight these over-engineered trucks could haul. Brothers Harvey and Albe (Pete) Russell worked at Mansfield Structural Steel on Park Avenue East. In the early 1920s they were to deliver a large amount of steel to Norwalk. Why make two trips? They badly overloaded their solid-tired truck and away they went, probably not very fast, to Norwalk.

When the men arrived they drove down a newly paved street where the wheels on the overloaded trucks left grooves in the pavement. The Mayor of Norwalk must have hit the ceiling and the company had to pay for the damages.

The Russell brothers, as one might expect, were quickly invited to find employment somewhere else. Both wound up with jobs at Westinghouse where they always laughed with co-workers about their dumb deed and how they got fired.

Mansfield Art Center announces 2021 exhibition schedule

Central Ohio Artists will be kicking off the 2021 Exhibition schedule with a show entitled "In Between Everywhere." Designed to showcase the talent of 42 central Ohio artists in a variety of mediums and styles the artists were chosen for consistency of vision and quality of work.

"Create Ohio Strong" is the Mansfield Art Center's theme in 2021 with a goal to feature and support as many Ohio artists as possible in these unprecedented times", according to George Whitten, executive director. "All of our exhibitions are free and open to the public thanks to the generosity of our sponsors."

Throughout 2021, the Mansfield Art Center will once again host a variety of rich and creative visual art for the community to enjoy. One of the highlights this year will be the "Ohio Clay & Glass Invitational" which will be for clay and glass artists in Ohio to compliment the Mansfield Art Center's new Ceramic and Glass Studio.

An exciting new endeavor for 2021 will be the addition of the new REACH Gallery. A small space gallery, the REACH Gallery will be dedicated to showcasing the talents of five local artists throughout the year who are eager to have a solo exhibition in a setting entirely dedicated to promoting art and artists. The first exhibition will open Feb. 6 with the brilliant photography of Braxton Daniels followed by artists Jane Johnson, E.D. Jasbeck, James Fleeson and Gibby Kain with more in depth information to be released.

Our grand finale for the year will be our traditional Holiday Fair, always featuring an amazing display of beautiful fine arts, fine crafts and gifts for sale throughout the holiday shopping season.

The 2021 exhibition schedule includes: Jan. 24-Feb. 28, Central Ohio Artists: "In Between Everywhere", is designed to highlight and showcase the work of 42 central Ohio artists in a variety of mediums and styles, chosen for consistency of vision and quality of work. Curated by Adam Brouillette. Sponsored by Taylor Metal Products.

March 21–April 18, "Ohio Regional High School Exhibition" and the "2021 MAC Youth Art Show" will give our young artists in the region and locally an opportunity to receive recognition for their outstanding work in this annual competition.

May 9-June 6, "The 76th Annual May Show" is a juried exhibition drawing extreme talent from all over the state of Ohio. A wide variety of mediums will be shown including painting, drawing, sculpture and contemporary craft. Sponsored by Mechanics Bank.

June 27-July 25, "Authentic Surface" is an exhibition that presents the "truth of surfaces". The work of the 11 exhibiting artists is authentic in that the artworks do not pretend to become anything more than what they are. Genuine authenticity is shown in the relationship between artistic media and the surface on which it resides. Significantly, in the process of discovering that surface, something beautiful, astonishing and lasting is created. In the Foundation Gallery will be an exhibition called "Shush," porcelain sculpture created by artist Kimberly Chapman.

Aug. 15–Sept. 12, "Ohio Designer Craftsmen: The Best of 2020-2021" is a popular show that will feature over 70 artists. Their contemporary works show excellence in design and artistic expression. The beautiful paintings of the late Mike Wasemann, a Mansfield native, will be on display in our Foundation Gallery. Sponsored by Taylor Metal Products.

Oct. 3–31, The Ohio Clay & Glass Invitational' is a new event for the Mansfield Art Center giving a nod to our new Ceramic and Glass Studio. Public asked to be patient as COVID vaccine appointments strain phone lines

Richland Public Health recently released a Central Scheduling toll free phone number for calling to schedule an appointment for the COVID-19 vaccine from Richland Public Health.

The toll free number (1-866-395-1588) was overwhelmed with calls on Jan. 19 and the phone lines crashed. Until all Richland County providers get a larger allotment of vaccines, scheduling will continue to be difficult. The public is asked to be patient. RPH personnel wants to make sure everyone who wants a COVID-19 vaccination can get one.

The public is asked not call RPH's general number or visit RPH's building.

The number is currently for registering seniors only, starting with those 80 years old and older. Ohio Governor Mike DeWine's plan for Phase 1B (dependent on vaccine supplies) is:

Tuesday, Jan. 19: vaccinations available to those 80 years old and older

Monday, Jan. 25, vaccinations will open up to those 75 years old and older

Monday, Feb. 1: open to those 70 years old and older. Also vaccinations will begin for school personnel. Those over 80 who do not obtain an appointment this week make call in following weeks.

Monday, Feb. 8: open to those 65 years old and older.

The toll-free line will be active from 9 am to 7 pm Monday through Saturday.

Instead of using RPH, Richland County residents who want to receive a COVID-19 vaccine may choose to schedule an appointment at one of the following locations. Call to see what registration requirements each location may have. Do not attempt to schedule at more than one location.

Ford 641 Workmaster Restoration Project by Walker Wallace, Plymouth FFA Chapter

Local student restores Ford 641 Workmaster

When Jan and Dick Shellhouse of Shelby, approached the Agricultural Educator at Plymouth High School Laura Ringler looking to have their tractor restored Ringler immediately had a student in mind.

Walker Wallace, an ambitious freshman in her FFA program with a myriad of repair experience working with his Dad, Derrick Wallace on tractor restorations. Walker is also the great grandson of Howard Cuppy who was also a master repairman and restorer. Wallace, Shellhouse and Ringler worked together to create a contract that would benefit all fairly and Walker's first SAE began. The following is a reflection written by Walker on his tractor restoration experience.

When I first heard the idea of restoring a tractor for my 2019-'20 FFA Supervised Agricultural Experience (SAE) project I was excited. The tractor started out torn apart and in pieces. I felt like it was important to make an estimate of how much it would cost for repair before I got started. It was like finding puzzle pieces when I was looking for the parts for the tractor to find out what exactly was missing. I spent hours online looking for pictures and diagrams of this tractor to find out what exactly went where.

"After hours of research I started to piece together the engine and with the help of my Dad, we put all the missing parts on an order list. I ordered parts from many different places, I got a ton of my parts from Hills tractor. (They are out of state and worked very well with me to get me all the parts I needed in a timely manner.)

"After all of our parts came in we had the engine together and running but it did not run correctly. After many countless hours I rebuilt the carburator for the second time and with many adjustments it ran great. From then on, it felt like it was setback after setback. The distributor ate the thrush washer and skipped time. I replaced the whole unit as it was needing some other work too. The hydraulic pump and system would not prime up leaving me with no hydraulics and not very many ideas on how to fix it. I went through many diagnostic processes and eventually found out it was bleeding pressure off through a loose screw.

"Soon after, I thought it was time for the paint and it was far from it actually. I continued to have problems with gaskets leaking and oil going everywhere on the engine. Since I had replaced all the gaskets I thought maybe I did not torque them correctly. While that was true for one gasket the oil leak was coming from something much worse. The front crankshaft seal had went out and it was pouring oil on to the oil pan and the fan was pushing it everywhere.

"Overnight, we pulled the whole front axle off of the tractor. I started at 6 pm with no parts and was done by 3 pm in the afternoon on the next day. In all of my time spent working with the diagnostic system I must have repaired the carburetor at least 15 times along with adjusting the timing. At this point the majority of the work was finally done and the last thing to do was paint.

"I believe those countless hours I spent on the little details made a huge difference in the way this tractor turned out. I feel if I wouldn't have double checked the parts as I was putting the tractor back together, it would have had problem after problem for him causing it to not run correctly at the end of the day. This tractor turned into a masterpiece that I am very proud of and will hopefully last for generations to come."

Walker would like to thank the Shellhouse family for this opportunity, his Dad and friends for their assistance, and Mrs. Ringler for helping to make the connection for this project. It was the experience of a lifetime and Walker particularly enjoyed seeing the smiling face of Mr. Shellhouse when he came driving in on his restored 641 Ford this past fall.
