The Wagon Masters

By Bob Carter

Most little kids, especially boys, want a wagon to ride down a hill or, if prodded, to haul a little baby brother or sister around. That usually didn't last very long.

Before the red metal Radio Flyers were invented, these four-wheeled haulers were made of wood. The earliest ones even had wood spoke wheels and are eagerly sought by antique dealers. I even have one.

In Lexington, a couple of the younger set managed to add a little goat power to their trusty haulers. Now that must have taken some time and patience but photo records prove that at least three early wooden wagons are known to have had goat power. Two of these were photographed on E. Main St., near the cemetery in early 1900.

A horse drawn buggy is seen crossing the bridge. It washed out in 1913. The building on the left is the early railroad station built on pilings over the creek bank. The building on the right over the creek bank is the last water powered grist mill. It was torn down in the early 1900s.

Perhaps some enterprising kid might like to attempt to duplicate this mode of power. Better try to get the goat first. The village fathers raised an eyebrow over that.

I usually don't write these reviews from a first person perspective but I feel I must to get across my feelings for F9: The Fast

Saga, the ninth film in the long running Fast and Furious franchise. Dom Toretto (Vin Diesel) returns with his wife Letty (Michelle Rodriguez) living a quiet life until they are asked to go to South America to retrieve half of a secret device which can control every electronic device in the world. Dom discovers the real person behind it is his brother played by John Cena.

I will start out by saying that I am a fan of this series. I own all of them and they are fun, popcorn fare but certainly a different series than the street racing it started out as in The Fast and the Furious. F9 has really taken the series from absurd but enjoyable to just plain absurd. The first big action set piece feels like it belongs in another movie and the special effects are so unbelievable it gave me a big eye roll.

The movie is not all bad. The chase scenes are fun especially the way they incorporate magnets into the sequences but there are way too many flashbacks to when Dom and his brother were young as they try to explain that backstory as well as the return of a beloved character which isn't quite believable.

The other element is that there has been a joke going around the cast of this movie for a while that they haven't gone to space yet and, well, you will have to see if they do but let's just say the movie goes for the extreme near the end.

This movie could have been so much better if it would have concentrated on the relationship between Dom and his brother stealing this device instead of these other back stories throughout. I also predicted the ending which is something I don't like to do. The supporting cast is good as always including Ludacris and Tyrese Gibson but Helen Mirren and a returning Charlize Theron are wasted in too brief appearances.

F9: The Fast Saga is one of the worst in the series from a story that just goes way too far. There will be two more installments that end the series and let's hope this cast returns and they bring Dwayne Johnson and Jason Statham with them as they were sorely missed.

Free Family Fun on the Farm Festival is July 3 at Malabar

By Theresa Rozic Sutter, Community Relations Coordinator

As residents of Richland County, it is very fortunate to have a wide range of fresh food available throughout the year including fresh fruit and vegetables, eggs, meat and honey.

The pandemic brought attention and awareness of where food comes from, and an emphasis on locally produced food.

To continue to raise awareness on where food comes from, Richland Soil and Water Conservation District (Richland SW-CD) is partnering with Malabar Farm State Park, for Family Fun on the Farm Festival Saturday, July 3 at Malabar Farm from 3–6 pm. A barn dance will follow at 7 pm.

There are many fun activities planned for all ages, especially children. The festival is open to anyone and admission is free.

While at the festival, watch demonstrations on growing shitake mushrooms, saving seeds and how to make a seed bomb. Help clean wheat seeds with an old-fashioned seed cleaner and grind the wheat into flour. Make a greenhouse from a bag, turn a recycled toilet paper tube into an owl and buy fresh produce. Sample Figg's non-alcoholic mixers and Banzo Butter.

Take a wagon ride, try to hit the bullseye at the archery station and visit the farm animals, plus turtles, snakes and even an Alpaca. Spin the Agriculture and Conservation Trivia Wheel to win great prizes, and children can have their face painted with farm animal themes.

Cast a line at the pond; fishing is free for children 15 and under. Stop by the new Mansfield/Richland County Public Library Bookmobile. Enjoy live music and storytelling. To quench your thirst and appetite purchase goodies from food trucks. Young children will let their imaginations run wild at the Imagination Stations.

Learn about disaster preparedness, weather-related information, the Citizens Emergency Response Team and Medical Reserve Corp. and children up to 18 years-old can pick up free dental health bags.

Shrimp Scampi over Polenta Stuffed Tomatoes

We love Semolina, in Kimmyscucina we use it for so many things. (Of course in our fresh pasta, but we also use it in many of our baked items as well as coating it on so many meats to make the perfect crust). When we first made this dish, it was a perfect summer day and we enjoyed it outside on a beautiful evening. Invite some friends over

2-3 lbs shrimp (we used extra large, they need to be peeled and deveined)

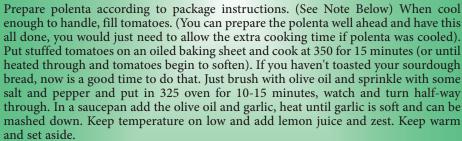

2 cups semolina

and have a party!

- 1/2 cup parmesan cheese
- 2 cups polenta, prepared by package instructions
- 4–5 roma tomatoes, cut in half, scoop out center
- 2 cups olive oil
- 5 cloves garlic
- 1 lemon zest and juice

Salt & pepper

Instructions

Mix semolina and parmesan in a bag or large dish. (I like to use a bag for easy cleanup). Put shrimp into semolina mixture and coat well. Put on oiled baking sheet. Set Aside. In a 350 degree oven bake the shrimp for 6-12 minutes, turning half-way through.

To assemble, you can do this on individual plates or on a large platter. Lay the sour-dough bread down, add the polenta stuffed tomato and then top with a shrimp. Scatter additional shrimp around the plate. Drizzle with the garlic oil and you are ready to serve. Shave some fresh parmesan cheese over the top.

Notes: You have some options when you prepare your Polenta. You instruction will tell you to use water. If you would like some more flavor, you can use chicken or vegetable broth. For this particular recipe, I used something I had left over from another recipe, which included a mixture of chicken broth, white wine and some butter. Your possibilities are endless.

Let's talk collagen, you see it everywhere on the shelves at about every store. It can get confusing to know what kind to buy.

When I choose supplements, I like to replenish what my body is no longer creating. Collagen is one of them. We need it for our joints, skin, eyes, hair and connective tissue to name a few. As we age our body creates less and less, this is one reason we have so many joint issues as we age, not to mention all those fine lines.

Something to know when you are choosing a collagen is to understand the molecular weight of your collagen. The average powder collagen is too heavy of a molecular weight for your body to truly absorb it. You actually excrete more than you absorb, so technically you are flushing money down the toilet.

The collagen that I have found and love is a liquid collagen matrix. It has a very light molecular weight so my body takes it, absorbs it and runs with it, literally!

It has done amazing things for my joints and skin and now I am back running and cycling and doing all the things I love.

Be sure to do your research when choosing supplements, don't trust a label, Know what you are putting in your body. A lot of collagens are a cocktail of a lot of pieces and parts not the purest form of collagen. The liquid matrix I have found is from one organic source. I am 47 and I have been taking my collagen for almost four years. The difference I have seen in my skin and joints is amazing! This is one supplement I will never stop taking. The Madison Township Trustees met to discuss the possible sale of Engine 75. The final descision was made to place the engine back on the GovDeals website after making repairs to a rust issue at a cost of $461 and receiving a letter stating the unit is safe to sell. The work was done at Blubaugh Body and Frame Shop in Mt.

Trustee chair Jim Houser was absent due to illness but Dan Fletcher and Cathy Swank agreed to place the engine on the website with a minimum bid of $25,000.

Fire chief Ken Justus said "a firm who deals with used equipment said the selling price ranges from $49,000 to $86,000 for the year and model."

Springfield Township continues fire hydrant flushing

The Springfield Township Fire Department, in cooperation with the Ontario Water Department, has begun flushing fire hydrants. Annual hydrant flushing is critical to ensure the continued reliability of the city's hydrants.

The flushing will normally be done Monday–Friday between the hours of 8 am and 3:30 pm. Some discoloration of water may occur. This is due to sediments and particulates in the water remains that are riled during flushing.

Residents are strongly advised not to do laundry during these hours as this could lead to discoloration of clothing. However, the water is safe for drinking. The water department has special detergent available to remove rust stains from clothing if they are inadvertently soiled.

Residents are asked not to plant shrubs or trees within five feet of a fire hydrant as this can make it extremely difficult for firefighters to locate or operate. Residents with hydrants that are obscured will be asked to trim or remove foliage. For more information call the water department at 419-529-3815.

Caring for our veterans during Fourth of July celebrations

As Americans ready for barbecues and fireworks on the Fourth of July, it's also important to remember that some veterans might be uncomfortable in large crowds or around loud noises.

Swords to Plowshares, a nonprofit organization that is nationally recognized for its decades of experience and leadership in building comprehensive programs and resources for low-income, homeless, and at-risk veterans, reminds everyone to be supportive of our veterans by respecting how they choose to engage in Fourth of July activities.

Not all veterans who are exposed to combat or other traumatic military experiences are diagnosed with PTSD. Approximately 30% of Vietnam War Veterans experience PTSD over the course of their lifetimes, and approximately one in five service members who have returned from deployment operations in Afghanistan and Iraq have symptoms of PTSD.

Because Fourth of July fireworks displays can sound like explosions or gunfire, and these might remind some veterans of traumatic experiences, some will choose to avoid them.

Loud noises may cause a veteran with PTSD to relive or re-experience a traumatic event in their past. This may induce an overly vigilant or guarded response, a pre-occupation with danger, or a fixation with being prepared for whatever may occur in the future.

Some veterans may want to avoid public events at other times, even if fireworks are not involved. Research has found that for some veterans, emotional gatherings with patriotic symbols can be a risk for worsening or recurrence of PTSD symptoms.

Others may want to avoid watching the news if it focuses on stories about war. Repeated exposure has been found to be a risk for developing PTSD or worsening of PTSD symptoms, particularly for those veterans who are following the news closely and viewing coverage that is reminiscent of their own experiences.

Hyperarousal, difficulties sleeping or concentrating, a startle response, or avoiding sitting with a back to a door or window may also be due to cumulative trauma. These responses may also correspond to the actual traumatic events if their trauma occurred.

PTSD has a relationship with traumatic brain injury (TBI) and chronic pain as part of what is referred to as "the polytrauma clinical triad." TBI symptoms such as sleep problems, trouble with memory and concentration, depression, anxiety, and irritability may overlap with those of PTSD.

To help our nation's veterans, it's important for caregivers, supporters, and advocates to be well-educated on how to assist them. Developed by Swords to Plowshares and funded in partnership with the Walmart Foundation, Toolbox.vet is unique in that it blends written content with podcast audio and video conversations with real veterans and advocates. Information about PTSD, community-based care, veterans benefits, and much more is available.

Veterans in crisis and those concerned about them can call the Veterans Crisis Line at 1-800-273-8255 (press 1) to talk with caring, qualified responders or go to veteranscrisisline.net.

Red Cross continues severe blood shortage

The American Red Cross continues to experience a severe blood shortage that is negatively affecting blood product availability across the country. Donors of all blood types — especially type O — are urged to make an appointment to give now and help ensure hospital shelves are stocked with blood products over the Fourth of July holiday and beyond.

Right now, the Red Cross is working around the clock to provide blood products to hospitals responding to an unusually high number of traumas and emergency room visits, as well as overdoses and resulting transplants. As a result of the blood shortage, some hospitals are being forced to slow the pace of elective surgeries until the blood supply stabilizes, delaying crucial patient care.

In addition, while summer is traditionally a time when blood donations decline, this year is particularly challenging as many Americans receive their vaccinations and resume summer activities after more than a year of limited interactions and travel, leading to lower donor turnout. The need for blood doesn't take a holiday break — patients still depend on lifesaving transfusions.

Donors are needed now to prevent further delays to patient care. Schedule an appointment to give blood now by using the Red Cross Blood Donor App, visiting RedCrossBlood.org, calling 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767) or enabling the Blood Donor Skill on any Alexa Echo device.

As a thank-you, all those who come to give July 1–6 will receive a Red Cross embroidered hat by mail, while supplies last. And, donors who come to give July 7–31 will receive a $10 Amazon.com gift card by email, plus a chance to win gas for a year (a $5,000 value).

In most cases, those who have received a COVID-19 vaccine can donate. However, knowing the name of the manufacturer of the vaccine they received is important in determining donation eligibility.

Bloodmobile locations are:

Thursday, July 1, 2–7 pm, St. Peter's High School, 111 W. First St., Mansfield

Saturday, July 3, 11 am to 5 pm,, Richland Mall RSMO, 2209 Richland Mall, Ontario; and 9 am to 2 pm, Shelby Police Department, 31 Mack Ave., Shelby Wednesday, July 7, 1–7 pm, Richland Mall RSMO, 2209 Richland Mall, Ontario; and 8 am to 1 pm, Shelby YMCA, 111 W. Smiley Rd., Shelby

Monday, July 12, 8 am to 1 pm, OhioHealth Mansfield Hospital, 335 Glessner Ave., Mansfield

Wednesday, July 14, 1–7 pm, Richland Mall RSMO, 2209 Richland Mall, Ontario

To donate blood, individuals need to bring a blood donor card or driver's license or two other forms of identification that are required at check-in. Individuals who are 17 years of age in most states (16 with parental consent where allowed by state law), weigh at least 110 pounds and are in generally good health may be eligible to donate blood. High school students and other donors 18 years of age and younger also must meet certain height and weight requirements.

Donors can also save up to 15 minutes at the blood drive by completing a RapidPass®. With RapidPass®, donors complete the pre-donation reading and health history questionnaire online, on the day of donation, from a mobile device or computer. To complete a RapidPass®, follow the instructions at RedCrossBlood.org/Rapid-Pass or use the Red Cross Blood Donor App.

Using humorous and engaging videos and social media posts, the #BanksNeverAskThat campaign seeks to empower consumers to identify bogus bank communications asking for sensitive information like their passwords and

"This campaign is an unprecedented effort by the banking industry to address a growing threat to our customers," said Rob Nichols, ABA president and CEO. "Thanks to participating banks like Premier Bank, we're turning the tables on the bad guys by giving consumers the tools they need to spot illegitimate bank communications."

Premier Bank will share eye-catching basic questions and consumer tips on social media designed to highlight the most common phishing schemes. - •Remove all discarded tires from your property.
- •Dispose of tin cans, plastic containers, ceramic pots, or similar water-holding containers.
- •Make sure roof gutters drain properly. Clean clogged gutters in the spring and fall.
 - •Clean and chlorinate swimming pools, outdoor saunas and hot tubs. If not in use keep empty and covered.

- Drain water from pool covers.
- •Change the water in bird baths at least once a week.
- •Turn over plastic wading pools, and wheelbarrows, etc. when not in use.
- •Clean ditches of obstructions so they drain properly.
