Rain garden and rain barrel workshop planned at Kingwood

Richland Soil and Water Conservation District, in partnership with Kingwood Center Gardens, is hosting a free rain garden and rain barrel workshop on March 22, 2022. The workshop begins at 6 pm in Roost Hall at Kingwood Center Gardens, 50 N. Trimble Rd., Mansfield.

Participants are asked to park along N. Linden Rd. and enter Kingwood through the Linden Road gate. The workshop is free and open to the public. Registration is encouraged due to limited seating. Register at <https://richlandswcd.net/get-involved/calendar>

The purpose of the workshop is to increase awareness and provide an opportunity to learn about the importance of stormwater management and the role Rain Gardens and Rain Barrels play in managing stormwater. Participants will also learn how Kingwood Center Gardens uses their rain garden and rain barrels.

Harvesting rainwater conserves water and helps prevent stormwater runoff and pollution from entering our waterways. The collected water may be used to water yards and gardens.

Native plants in rain gardens are beneficial to pollinators. Plus, they allow the soil to absorb water, which helps prevent stormwater runoff and soil erosion and provides a beautiful natural area.

Questions about the workshop may be directed to Dan at 419-747-8077 or Jordan at 419-747-8688 or by email to Contact@Richlandswcd.net

The Richland Soil and Water Conservation District develops, implements, and assists landowners, government agencies and our partners with a wide range of natural resource conservation programs.

Light Traffic in Bungtown

By Bob Carter

The pages of history have started to turn yellow with age and very few now living remember that dot on the map once called Bungtown. The history of that quaint, rural, but scattered community is not even on Morrow County maps. The town simply vanished. Where did all the people go?

Bungtown was located west of Steam Corners. Go west from the intersection of 314 and turn right at the first road, numbered 45. Continue north and around the curve to the end at County Road 50. Yup, you're in downtown Bungtown. Roll down your car windows and enjoy the quiet. Unless a car goes by, there is a moment to remember. Up the hillside on the north is where a man named John Logan built a log cabin and a spring-fed saw and grist mill. Some old-timers remember it was called Logan's Mills or later Mohican Mills.

Logan moved on and, as land was cleared, the water table dropped and as the spring decreased, his mills were abandoned. Samuel Barr was the next land owner and was the one that made the fledgling site the beginning of a future village. Barr operated the spring-fed saw mill at times as a lesser amount of water was needed.

He then built a steam-powered grist mill near the road junction and also built a photographic studio part way up the road in another small building. He also had a two room store with a wide porch where he sold a few goods in one room and liquor at the popular bar in the other.

A nearby distillery provided the whiskey and that is where the name came from. The bung of the whiskey barrel was frequently opened.

When Lexington was voted dry by the temperance people, Bungtown was the place to go.

There was also a blacksmith shop and Peter Treisch had a sandstone quarry further up the stream to the south. The remains are still there. It's the beginning of the Clear Fork River.

When 87-year-old Carrie Shuler was interviewed in 1967, she made the comment that in her time the principal owners were the Winbiglers and "liked to fight."

Perhaps the bar room was the source of trouble.

In 1980, Robert and Julie Logan moved into the old Winbigler home. They were told old Mrs. Windbigler would never ever allow strong drink in her house. The Logans and their daughters found empty whiskey bottles hidden all over the barn. Maybe that's what all the fights were about.

Sam Barr was a dedicated tinkerer. He was sure he could solve perpetual motion and had an apparatus about six feet long and made of logs etc. in the back of his store on which he would work in his effort to solve this problem. It never worked.

His old steam powered grist mill was a small affair about 20 X20 with a forty inch granite buhr (millstone). It likely furnished the needed con meal and mash for the distillery. They even built a bandstand at the corners. Steam Corners had a band but no bandstand.

The likely demise of Bungtown is found in an April 20, 1899 Morrow County newspaper; "On Tuesday at about 9 AM, S. L. Barr, proprietor of what was known as the Mohican Valley Store, was found dead in his store by one of the neighbors, who called on the business.

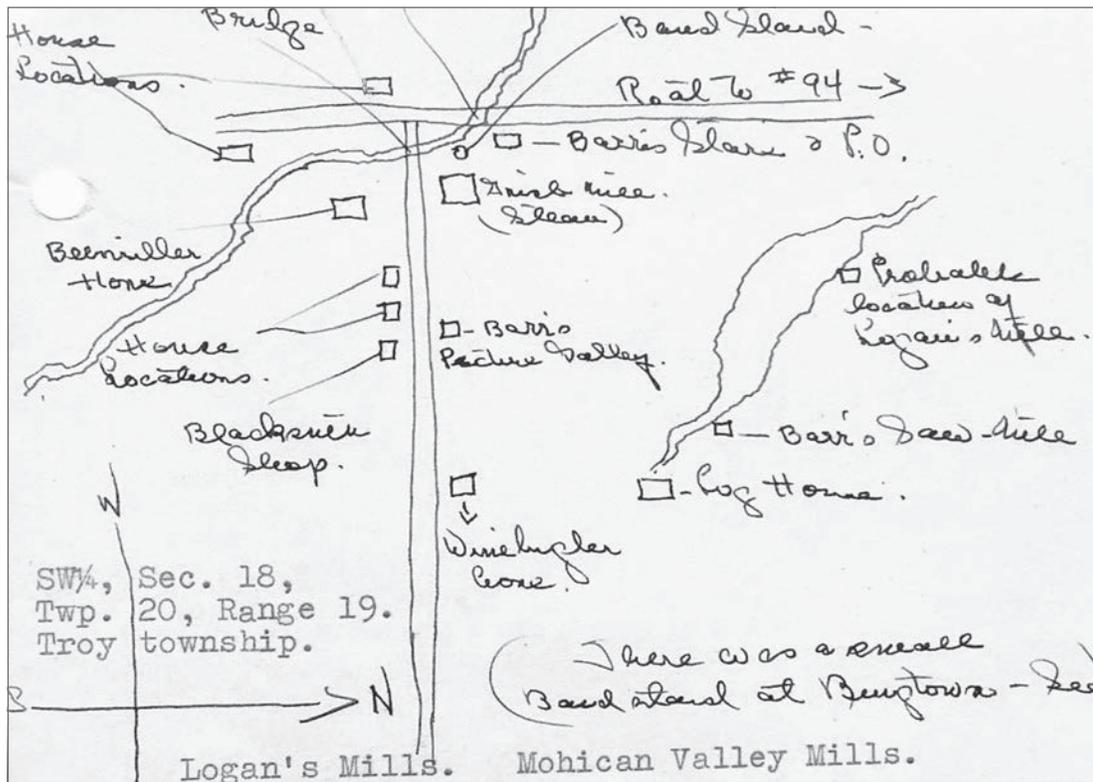

Several parties had purchased goods from him in the early morning, and at nine o'clock, he was found laying on a board near the stove dead, and the coroner was called.

Barr had kept the store for about 25 years, and was about 70 years old. He had been complaining, for several days, about not feeling well."

A couple of weeks later an auction was held selling all the store goods. The mills fell silent.

The life that kept Bungtown growing was gone. At one time there were nine houses up the hill along the road.

Today, only two of the original remain. Now all is silent in Bungtown. It was quietly past over by the Morrow County history books. Not a word. Most of these books were published during the era of the great temperance movement. The writers thought some things should best not be remembered and tip toed over it.

IN 1951 HISTORIAN D. W. GARBER, 1896-1984, drew this map and recorded much of the history of what was know as Bungtown.

THE ENTERTAINMENT EXAMINER

— By Ian Stumbo —

Director Matt Reeves' The Batman is a terrific film. As someone who has been a lifelong Batman fan and has seen every live action film in theaters since 1992's Batman Returns, this is a different take on the franchise, making the film more of a detective story than a big flashy action film. That element really makes this film stand out.

After the murder of the mayor of Gotham, Lt. Gordon (Jeffrey Wright) and the mysterious Batman try to locate the person behind his and a subsequent series of murders. The killer keeps leaving riddles for Batman along the way.

There is so much to say about this movie but I will start out with Robert Pattinson who has taken over the role of Bruce Wayne/Batman.

If Twilight is the only thing familiar to you about Pattinson, he has come a long way. Over the years he has done great independent film work and he makes a terrific, brooding, dark Batman.

In this movie, Batman has only been around for a couple years and it's great in the way Reeves shows how he is still finding his way, in a sense.

There is plenty of action including a riveting car chase involving Batman and an unrecognizable Colin Farrell as the Penguin. What a terrific makeup job but even more impressive is Farrell's voice and overall performance.

Everyone in this movie is great though. Zoe Kravitz as Selena Kyle/Catwoman is impressive and Paul Dano as the Riddler is truly terrific. Andy Serkis also does fine work as the butler Alfred.

There are some riveting scenes in this movie and Matt Reeves has already proved himself directing the last two entries in the most recent Planet of the Apes reboot (an excellent trilogy). Here he brings a different kind of Batman story, one that concentrates more on an investigation and clues and finding things out rather than something colorful and corny like the terrible Batman and Robin.

This movie may detract some viewers at its three hour run time, but this movie is extremely re-watchable and thoroughly enjoyable from the performances to the action set pieces to the entire look of Gotham City.

Go into this one with an open mind and it may quickly become one of your favorite Batman movies. While not perfect, especially when the movie becomes bigger at the end, it's hard to pick a whole lot. The Batman is a great time at the movies so go see it!

Shelby Alliance hosts paint party

Shelby Alliance Church held a Family Paint Party on Sunday, Feb. 27. It is the first of the family nights planned for the 2022 year.

Pastor James Taylor said, "We see a need in the community for wholesome family activities that help build relationships and share the message of Jesus. Our desire is to see every family and home experience God's love."

Families were invited to paint together on a directed drawing led by Taylor Wade. Families of all ages joined together to create a painting inspired by Joshua 4 where the Israelites put together a memorial to remember all the things God had done for them.

Children's director, Whitney Collins, described the event as "an event where families got to spend time together and do something meaningful. Families were challenged to hang the painting in their home as a reminder to talk about all that God has done for them. When we remember how faithful God has been in our past, it gives us hope in the present and the future."

NRA-backed constitutional carry passes Ohio legislature

The National Rifle Association Institute for Legislative Action has announced that the Ohio legislature passed the NRA-backed constitutional carry legislation and the bill is en route to the governor's desk for signature.

"This is a huge moment for Ohioans, who value their Second Amendment rights — but have been forced to ask for extra government permission before fully exercising them," said John Weber, NRA Ohio state director. "The NRA has spent years trying to get a bill like this passed in Ohio, and we're hopeful the governor will sign and finally make this a reality."

Constitutional carry simply allows law-abiding citizens, who are otherwise legally able to possess and carry a firearm, to carry that firearm for self-defense. Currently, it is legal for these law-abiding citizens to carry a firearm if the firearm is visible. If the governor signs SB 215, those same citizens will be able to carry that firearm under a jacket or in a purse.

Last year, similar legislation passed in five states making constitutional carry the law in 21 states nationwide. This year, four states are considering the legislation, including Ohio.

"Anti-gun activists try to mislead the public by saying this legislation will allow criminals to carry — nothing could be further from the truth. Similar bills have passed in 21 other states and there has been no resulting increase in crime. This bill simply codifies the fundamental right of all people to defend themselves wherever a self-defense situation may arise," Weber concluded.

SB 215 passed the House 57-35, and passed the Senate 24-8. The governor has 10 days to sign once he receives the bill.

State Farm donates $60,000 worth of Girl Scout Cookies to Ohio first responders

Cookie season is underway and State Farm is helping in a big way. State Farm awarded $60,000 in grants to the Ohio Girl Scout troops, to support the largest girl-led entrepreneurship program. Funding from the grant is supporting the Girl Scouts cookie sales and financial literacy goals.

Local Girl Scout troops are delivering the cookies to over 300 State Farm agents across Ohio, where they are learning about being small business owners, earn their Cookie Business badges, and get a taste of entrepreneurship, while learning important business skills that set them up for success in life. State Farm agents are then donating the cookies to local first responders.

“The goal of the program was to support the Girl Scouts financial literacy program and also thank our local heroes by make the world around us a little sweeter,” said State Farm representative Ben Justice “State Farm is proud to partner with the Girl Scouts to help develop their business skills, along with learning the value of philanthropy and community service.”

Every Girl Scout purchase fuels local Girl Scouts’ adventures throughout the year: exploring what interests them, discovering their passions and taking action on issues they care about. Whether they’re using their STEM skills to solve a problem, changing a law to help their community, having an outdoor experience or starting an innovative nonprofit, Girl Scouts build a better future for themselves and the world.

“This grant embodies the spirit of what our company has been about for the last 100 years, about giving back and being a good neighbor and we are proud to continue to support the Girl Scouts.” said Ben Justice.

Richland County Foundation sets up a Gift of Grain Fund

The Richland County Foundation Gift of Grain Fund Committee recently held its inaugural meeting.

The committee members are Brian Alt, farmer; Donnie Clark, owner of Elzy Milling and Trade; Jess Eilenfeld, Ohio Department of Agriculture Meat Inspector; Christy Keith, Richland County Fair Board member; and Adam Staley, Clear Fork High School vocational agriculture teacher and FFA Advisor.

A Gift of Grain Fund was established by the Board of Trustees to accept donations from area farmers and donors, and it provided an initial $15,000 to seed the fund.

The committee will vet and award grants to agricultural nonprofit organizations.

The first grants will be made either later this year or early in 2023.

Farmers looking to minimize their tax liability while contributing to their community can donate crops to the Foundation at a local elevator. Accounts are set up at Centerra Co-op in Mansfield and Sunrise Cooperative in Crestline. Additional elevators will be added as donation sites for the Gift of Grain Fund.

Farmers should consult with their tax advisor to determine whether a donation of commodities is appropriate to their tax situation.

For details on how to make a Gift of Grain, including the producer letter, go to the "Giving" tab on richlandcountyfoundation.org

The Richland County Foundation, a not-for-profit 501c3, was established in 1945 as a way for individuals to pool and invest their gifts for the long-term good of Richland County and its residents.

The foundation helps people in Richland County give back to their community by investing their gifts for charity wisely so that grants can be made to improve the quality of life for all the county's citizens.

Collaborating with donors, the Foundation meets important needs today and plans for a strong future.

Brain Injury Association of Ohio promotes awareness during March

Every March, the Brain Injury Association of Ohio leads Ohio in recognizing Brain Injury Awareness Month, a time to acknowledge and support the 1.8 million Ohioans who have been impacted by brain injury. The theme for the 2021-'23 campaign is "More Than My Brain Injury."

An acquired brain injury (ABI) is any injury to the brain that is not hereditary, congenital, degenerative or induced by birth trauma. ABIs – from trauma, stroke, infectious diseases, and brain tumors – are a serious public health issue in the U.S., where someone sustains a brain injury every nine seconds. According to available data, more than 5.3 million Americans live with brain injury-related disabilities at a cost exceeding $76.5 billion annually.

"For many, brain injury evolves into a chronic health condition that changes who they are and how they interact with the world," said Susan H. Connors, BIAA's president and chief executive officer. "Raising awareness of the impact of brain injury and making sure people have access to the support they need is essential – not only in March, but throughout the year."

The campaign provides a platform for educating the public about the incidence of brain injury. Information on Brain Injury Awareness Month, including educational material and downloadable collateral, is available at biaoh.org.

Individuals in need of information, resources and support after brain injury may call 833-783-1495.

American Red Cross celebrates March as Red Cross Month

In March, the Central & Southern Ohio Region of the American Red Cross is honoring the people who make its mission possible every day, during its annual Red Cross Month celebration — a national tradition started nearly 80 years ago when President Franklin D. Roosevelt issued the first national Red Cross Month proclamation recognizing those who give back through the American Red Cross. Each U.S. president has issued a proclamation ever since.

On March 23, Americans can join the annual Red Cross Giving Day campaign by donating at redcross.org/givingday to help provide shelter, food, relief items, emotional support and other assistance for people affected by disasters big and small.

In 2021, 1,770 regional volunteers spent 162,874 volunteer hours responding to nearly 1,300 local home fires; installing nearly 3,300 smoke alarms; holding nearly 8,000 blood drives collecting more than 143,000 blood products among other mission related activities.

Volunteers from the Central and Southern Ohio Region are also quick to respond to major disasters around the country and 2021 was no different. Local volunteers traveled to all parts of the nation to help those affected by hurricanes, wildfires, flooding and other life-altering disasters. In total, 137 volunteers from our region traveled to assist those impacted by various disasters across our country. To join this group of volunteers visit redcross.org/volunteertoday

Another way to help is to schedule a blood donation appointment as the Red Cross blood supply remains incredibly vulnerable. It's critical that individuals schedule a blood or platelet donation as soon as possible to help ensure patients get the care they need. To make an appointment, visit RedCrossBlood.org, call 1-800-RED CROSS or download the Red Cross Blood Donor App.

All those who come to give March 1–31 will receive a $10 e-gift card, thanks to Fanatics. Plus, they will be automatically entered for a chance to win a trip for two to the 2022 MLB All-Star Game in Los Angeles, CA.

THE EIGHTH GRADE FCS 8 class at Ontario Middle School has been learning about physical wellness. Students studied keeping their bodies healthy through eating well and exercising. To put their learning into action, they spent two days trying different types of exercise. The students completed one day of stretching/flexibility and one day of aerobic exercises.

Ontario Stingel Disability Awareness Days

Stingel Elementary hosted Disability Awareness and Acceptance days on March 1 and 2. Students in grades K-5 rotated through a variety of activities to educate them about different disabilities. Some of these activities included learning braille, learning sign language, trying to zip/tie things with gloves on, learning about different adaptive equipment, and experiencing what it might feel like to learn differently than others. Not only did all students learn more about different disabilities, they also learned the importance of being kind to those who are different from us.

Taitum Owens, fifth grade student, also performed a dance with her white cane for all students during lunch to "The Climb."

Hospice camp chosen for $1,000 grant from New London Rotary

The New London Rotary’s Area United Fund has selected Hospice of North Central Ohio as one of 19 area agencies to receive funding grants.

The grant in the amount of $1,000 is designated for HNCO’s annual “Camp Hope” children’s bereavement camp scheduled for June 17, 18, 24 and 25 at Pleasant Hill Outdoor Camp.

The camp was established in 1996 to provide a safe and caring environment for grieving children ages 6-17 who have experienced the loss of a loved one through death.

Becky Pfister, HNCO Support Services Manager/MSW, stated: “Without the support of charitable gifts and grants, this much-needed camp experience would not be possible.”

LOOKING BACK • THIS WEEK IN TRIBUNE-COURIER HISTORY

Where Are They Now?

A few weeks ago we asked for updates on 1963 Ontario High school graduates who were featured in a 1964 issue of the Tribune-Courier. Below is what we received.

MAX ROBERT TERMAN

KAREN AU

Max Terman is a retired professor of biology at Tabor College in Kansas. He is a graduate of Michigan State University and Spring Arbor College. He is the author of four published books including Hiram's Honor, Hiram's Hope and Messages from An Owl.

He currently resides in Kansas and is the brother of Don Terman who taught biology at Ontario for 33 years, and Ken Terman, who was a chemistry teacher and coach at Shelby.

Karen Au (Karen Au Hupp) attended Ashland College, then attended the Mansfield Beauty College. She worked as a hairdresser in Mansfield before marrying Carl Hupp (class of 1961) in 1967, and then moving to Columbus.

They have two sons, Darin and Matthew. After raising their sons, Karen worked as an office manager for a printing company, followed by working in her church's preschool as an assistant teacher.

After their retirements, they took up camping again, and have their camper in a private campground in Loudonville.

They have been on trips to Canada, China, Kosrae (a small island in the South Pacific where Carl served in the military), Hawaii, Costa Rica and, just last fall, on a river cruise to Hungary, Croatia, Serbia, Belgrade and Romania. Even though they have lived in Columbus for 55 years, Karen still considers Ontario her home.

Tammy Schmidt and Scott Kramarich

Two Lex Seniors Are Finalists In Ohio Scholarship Program

"Scott Kramarich and Tammy Schmidt are the top two finalists for Lexington Senior High School in the Ohio Academic Scholarship Program," announces Rick Hankinson, Lexington's school counselor.

At least one of them will win a $1,000 scholarship renewable for four years if they attend a college in Ohio. Some colleges in Ohio will match this amount, making the scholarship potentially worth $8,000 over four years.

Scott and Tammy, along with three other runners-up, Len Profenna, Ann Zuber and Darrin Bonecutter, were selected on the basis of their ACT scores and grade point averages. Hankinson commends Ohio for recognizing students who have used their abilities to achieve good grades in high school.

MARCH 10, 1876 — The first discernible speech is transmitted over a telephone system in Boston when inventor Alexander Graham Bell summons his assistant in another room by saying, "Mr. Watson, come here; I want you." Bell had received a telephone patent just three days before. Born in Edinburgh, Scotland, in 1847, he was the son of Alexander Melville Bell, a leading authority in public speaking and speech correction. The young Bell was trained to take over the family business, and while still a teenager he became a voice teacher and began to experiment in sound. In 1870, his family moved to Ontario, Canada, and in 1871 Bell went to Boston to demonstrate his father's method of teaching speech to the deaf. The next year, he opened his own school in Boston for training teachers of the deaf and in 1873 became professor of vocal physiology at Boston University. In his free time, Bell experimented with sound waves and became convinced that it would be possible to transmit speech over a telegraph-like system. He enlisted the aid of a gifted mechanic, Thomas Watson, and together the two spent countless nights trying to convert Bell's ideas into practical form. In 1875, while working on his multiple harmonic telegraph, Bell developed the basic ideas for the telephone. He designed a device to transmit speech vibrations electrically between two receivers and in June 1875 tested his invention. No intelligible words were transmitted, but sounds resembling human speech were heard at the receiving end. On Feb. 14, 1876, he filed a U.S. patent application. Just a few hours later, another American inventor, Elisha Gray, filed a caveat with the U.S. Patent Office about his intent to seek a similar patent. Bell filed first, so he was awarded U.S. patent 174,465. History.com
